ARTHUR M. MASON
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE JUSTICE

March 1, 1988

Honorable Edward F. Hennessey
Chief Justice
Supreme Judicial Court
1300 New Court House
Boston, Massachusetts 02108

Dear Chief Justice Hennessey:

In accordance with M.G.L. c. 211B, s. 9, I submit to you and the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court the Ninth Annual Report of the Massachusetts Trial Court.

The progress of the Trial Court as reported in this edition of the Annual Report reflects the spirit of cooperation that has evolved between the three constitutional branches of government. The Governor, the Senate and House of Representatives have collectively exercised their legislative prerogatives to promote the well being of the Judiciary. These efforts have manifested themselves in landmark initiatives contained within the General Appropriations Act of 1987 which have become commonly identified and referred to as Agenda '90, Modernizing the Judiciary.

Encouraged by the legislative initiatives and spurred by the prospect of additional support for the modernization of operational systems, Trial Court officials met regularly to discuss the future of the Court System. On December 1, 1987, we were pleased to publish Planning for the 1990's: Automation Systems, Personnel Systems, Case Flow Management, an extensive document detailing planning initiatives for the next three years.

The Annual Report represents a collective and collegial effort of administrators and staffers from the seven Trial Court Departments, the Office of the Commissioner of Probation, the Office of the Jury Commissioner, and the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice.

The submission of this volume allows me to thank and acknowledge the efforts of Henry L. Barr, Esquire, Administrator of Courts, and to express my appreciation to the Administrative Justices, Associate Justices, the staff of the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice and the 5,700 employees of the Trial Court for their dedication in the pursuit of judicial excellence.

To you, Chief Justice, and to the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court, I extend my personal appreciation for your continuing interest and support in our efforts to improve the orderly administration of justice in the Commonwealth.

Sincerely,

Arthur M. Mason
Chief Administrative Justice

Chief Administrative Justice

Administrator of Courts

Office of the Chief Administrative Justice

Introduction. The Office of the Chief Administrative Justice (OCAJ) is the central administrative agency for the six Trial Court Departments and the Office of the Commissioner of Probation. In the Trial Court there are 5,700 employees working at 110 courthouses throughout the 14 counties of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Located at the Suffolk County Courthouse in Boston, OCAJ is divided into six departments: Case Management Systems, Employee Relations/Personnel, Financial, Legal, Planning and Development and Systems/Data Processing. The Case Management Systems Department is a new OCAJ department. It was formed in late 1987.

The Ninth Annual Report of the Massachusetts Trial Court is printed in compliance with M.G.L., c. 211B, s.9. This report details the past year's administrative highlights and the statistical reports for the seven Trial Court Departments, the Office of the

Administrator of Courts Henry L.
Barr

Commissioner of Probation, the Office of the Jury Commissioner, and OCAJ.

Agenda '90. This year's report is written in the spirit of Agenda '90, Modernizing the Judiciary, a 54-page report compiled and written by the Massachusetts State Senate Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Senator Patricia McGovern. The many court management initiatives recommended in Agenda 90 were funded through the joint support of the House of Representatives and Senate Ways and Means Committees. With this funding OCAJ plans to implement these initiatives within the next three years.

From the report's Preface: "Hopefully, the Committee has provided a blueprint for ensuring that the Massachusetts Judiciary continues in its historic tradition of excellence."

Agenda '90 traced the evolution of the court system since the creation of the Governor's Select Committee on Judicial Needs (also called the "Cox Committee" after chairman Archibald Cox) in 1976 to the Court Reorganization Act of 1978 to the Trial Court in 1987. Many of the Cox Committee's recommendations were used in the Court Reorganization Act of 1978, which created today's consolidated court system. Before 1978 there was a maze of 417 separate budgets from municipal, county and state sources, now there is only one. Today the funding of the Trial Court is borne by the Commonwealth.

In Agenda '90 changes were recommended in judicial accountability, courthouse repair and renovation, Trial Court administration, and judicial education and training.

The goal of this year's report is to serve as a management tool for court managers.

Using Agenda '90 as a springboard, on December 1, 1987, OCAJ published Planning for the 1990's: Automation Systems, Personnel Systems, Case Flow Management. This planning document contains a three-year plan for the Trial Court. Planning initiatives for OCAJ and the Trial Court arose from meetings with OCAJ staff, representatives from the seven Trial Court Departments, the Office of the Commissioner of Probation, and the Jury Commissioner.

Planning for the 1990's discusses proposed projects in automation, personnel management, and case management.

The report states: "This document should be considered as part of an ongoing effort in an evolutionary process of planning for the future. It is our expectation that there will be modifications to this document with the passage of time."

Among the automation projects are the continuation of the efforts to automate the Probation Central File, enhancements to the Superior Court Civil and Criminal Case Information Systems, computer linkups with outside state agencies, such as the Registry of Motor Vehicles for driver offender information, the Department of Revenue for child support databases, and the state Comptroller's Office; and expansion of the Trial Court computer network.

Case management initiatives will study the compilation of Superior Court civil case statistics, a state-wide automated docketing system, and a standardized manual system for Superior Court Clerk-Magistrate's Offices.

Court management plans comprise the evaluation of the reporting of statistics for the Annual Report, a study of personnel resources allocation, and the review of the Personnel Department's Point Factor Analysis System, organization of the Trial Court's Data Processing, automation of fiscal management, an update of the Fiscal Systems's Manual and Audit

Review Manual, and creation of a court facilities management component.

1987 in Review. In OCAJ, the Fiscal Affairs Department continued implementing the Massachusetts Management and Accounting Reporting System (MMARS) within the Trial Court, expanded the Probation Receipt Accounting (PRA) network to 38 courts with plans to expand to 45 courts within two years.

The Legal Department negotiated for the Trial Court use of 87 leases for county buildings, 13 city and town buildings, and the 11 private buildings.

In the Employee Relations/Personnel Department the Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action officer reported that the number of minorities within the Trial Court rose to 11 percent, an increase from 10 percent in 1986.

The Planning and Development Department reported there was an 80 percent increase in calls in the Judicial Response System, expansion of the clerical training workshops, the automation of Law Libraries, the development of competency testing for court interpreters, a new computer-aided transcription program for court reporters in two counties of the Superior Court Department, and public information officer entered the world of desktop publishing with a new computer and software publishing programs.

The Systems/Data Processing Department, worked to expand the capacity of databases for the Criminal Offender Record Information (CORI) at the Office of the Commissioner of Probation, PRA, and the Case Management Systems.

Employee Relations/ Personnel Department

Collective Bargaining. On April 16, 1987, a collective bargaining agreement was executed with the Office and Professional Employees International Union, Local 6, Professional Unit. This three-year agreement covers the period from July 1, 1986 to June 30, 1989 and affects about 50 employees consisting of court reporters and Land Court Department engineers.

On September 15, 1987, a collective bargaining agreement was executed with the Service Employees International Union, Local 254. This agreement covers the three-year period commencing July 1, 1987 and expiring June 30, 1990. This is a unit of about 1,500 employees consisting of probation officers and the majority of court officers within the Trial Court.

This agreement provides the Chief Administrative Justice with the authority to transfer probation officers on a temporary or a permanent basis. Probation officers may be transferred from one court to another and from one department to another within the Trial Court.

Personnel Administration. The director of Employee Relations attended a seminar at the Supreme Court of Illinois and spoke on labor relations and collective bargaining. The Illinois Courts are faced with possible unionization of certain employees, and the seminar was sponsored by the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts and the National Center for State Courts.

The Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action officer and the director of Employee Relations attended several regional meetings of clerk-magistrates, District Court Department. At the meetings personnel issues, affirmative action, and collective bargaining were discussed.

The "Application for Employment," used by individuals in applying for positions within the Trial Court, was amended early in the year. The major change was the addition of a statement regarding the statutory prohibition to require or administer a lie detector test as a condition of employment or continued employment.

The Trial Court's Personnel Policies and Procedures Manual was amended to include a procedure for verifying a potential employee's eligibility to work in the United States. This procedure is the result of requirements imposed on certain employers set forth in the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 to verify employment eligibility for all persons hired after November 6, 1986.

The personnel coordinator conducted a series of meetings with seniors in several high schools throughout the state. The meetings were arranged with the assistance of guidance counselors to inform students of the career opportunities that exist within the Trial Court.

During the year the personnel coordinator attended meetings held by the Superior Court Clerks' Association, and the Superior Court Probation Services. The purpose was to address these groups on the matters of personnel issues and benefits within the Trial Court.

The Personnel Department added the Metropolitan Credit Union to the list of credit unions which are available to employees of the Trial Court through payroll deduction.

The Personnel Department has processed 1,525 requests for new hires and the promotion of employees within the Trial Court, 185 employee requests for unpaid leaves of absence, and 147 employee requests for sick leave buy-back and vacation in lieu of time off for employees retiring under the provisions of G.L., c. 32 (Retirement Systems and Pensions).

Personnel processed about 2,200 requests for salary step increases. These requests covered both union and nonunion employees, pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement or the Personnel Policies and Procedures Manual.

During 1987 the Personnel Office received and processed 672 requests from employees for remission of tuition for attendance at a state institution of higher education (excluding the University of Massachusetts Medical Center). Eligible employees receive remission of full tuition for enrollment in a degree program, or remission of one-half tuition for enrollment in a continuing education program.

The personnel coordinator met with staff members of the Division of Employment Security to establish a better procedure to process claims filed by former employees of the court system for unemployment compensation. Personnel received and processed 192 industrial accident claims filed by employees, of which 84 (44 percent) resulted in each employee (claimant) losing five or more days from work.

Personnel Classification and Compensation Plan. Pursuant to the provisions of the Trial Court's Personnel and Compensation Plan, Personnel received and processed 131 requests for review of position classifications. Of this total, 75 positions were reclassified and 56 were disapproved.

According to chapters 519 and 520 of the Acts of 1986, several managerial positions were adopted into the Plan. The Trial Court commissioned a study of job responsibilities for certain managerial positions. Based on the study's recommendations, the positions of clerk-magistrate and assistant clerk-magistrate of the Boston Municipal Court, District Court, Housing Court, and Juvenile Court Departments, recorder of the Land Court Department, register of probate and assistant register of probate, Probate and Family Court Department; and chief probation officer in all court departments were incorporated into the Personnel Compensation and Classification Plan.

The Personnel Policies and Procedures Manual was amended to include these management positions.

Dental and Optical Health Plan. Effective July 1, 1987, Local 6 members and nonunion employees were given a choice of a dental plan. These employees could choose either an insurance plan by Delta Dental or by Dental Benefits Providers. This program was amended to increase dental benefits for spouses and dependents of union members.

Eligible employees, about 4,000, were the four groups affiliated with Local 6 (Professional Unit, Clerical Unit, Middlesex County Superior Court Officers Association, and the Suffolk County County Officers) and nonunion employees. Also, a vision care plan was implemented for the Local 6 members.

On June 1, 1987, the provisions of the "Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act" (COBRA), a federal law passed in 1986, became applicable to all employees participating in the dental plan developed with the Local 6 organization. Under the provisions of COBRA, this dental plan must offer benefits to employees and their dependents in specified circumstances when benefit coverage would automatically terminate. For example, when an employee dies, benefit coverage can be continued for the surviving spouse and children for a specified period of time. This "continued benefit" coverage is optional to the participating employee at a cost of 102 percent of the cost of providing the same benefit coverage to others. In 1988, the provisions of the COBRA will be offered to the members of the Local 254 (most court officers and probation officers) dental plan.

Local 254 members are covered for dental and optical insurance by Blue Cross, Blue Shield.

Agenda '90 Projects. Two significant projects were commenced during the year. The first involves a study and analysis of the weighted factors and methodology used in classifying positions within the Personnel Classification and Compensation Plan for the Trial Court. This review and the resulting modifications will ensure that the "state-of-art" is maintained in using meaningful and objective criteria in relating pay to position responsibilities and requirements. The second project proposes that a program be instituted to establish a realistic system to determine staffing needs of the Trial Court departments based on workload and resources.

Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action. The December 1987 quarterly report showed that minorities comprised 11.2 percent of the Trial Court work force, an increase from the May 1987 report when minorities constituted 10.9 percent of all court personnel.

After last year's effort of encouraging the employment of handicapped and Vietnam veterans within the Trial Court, there has been an increase in the hiring in those categories.

Giving special attention and technical assistance to those remaining courts that lack minorities and women in higher level positions has continued.

In 1987, the EEO/AA officer attended the 13th Annual Conference of the American Association for Affirmative Action in Chicago, Illinois in April. This conference was designed to bring EEO/Affirmative Action professionals from the private and public sectors to discuss the latest EEO/AA developments. He attended the 1987 National Urban League Conference in July in Houston, Texas, and the theme of the conference focused on sexual harassment.

To develop a resume and applicant job bank, the EEO/AA officer and the personnel coordinator met with a number of guidance counselors at several high schools around the state to inform them of the employment opportunities existing in the Trial Court. These meetings resulted in a number of qualified high school seniors applying for employment and several were hired.

The EEO/AA officer continued to serve on management's collective bargaining committee, assisting in the negotiation of new agreements with several unions within the Trial Court.

The EEO/AA officer was appointed a member of the Gender Bias Study Committee. This committee will be conducting public hearings beginning in 1988.

This officer received and resolved a number of discrimination complaints from Trial Court personnel, and worked closely with MCAD (Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination) in getting and dispensing information on hiring and interviewing procedures consistent with state and federal laws as to proper questions that employers may ask of job applicants.

The EEO/AA officer reviews all applications for Trial Court employment to oversee compliance with EEO/Affirmative Action guidelines, and to see that all individuals have equal access to Trial Court positions.

The Trial Court continues to maintain one of the highest percentages in hiring minorities and women within the state government.

Fiscal Affairs Department

The Fiscal Affairs Department operates as the financial center for the seven Trial Court departments, OCAJ, and the Office of the Commissioner of Probation. It is responsible for payroll, the annual preparation of the Trial Court budget, purchasing and maintenance of equipment, and the auditing of all 110 court divisions.

Trial Court Budget. Fiscal Year 1987 appropriations and expenses of the Trial Court totaled $227,306,069, including funding and payments for Chapters 519 and 520 of the Acts of 1986 retroactive salary adjustments due certain Trial Court personnel in positions where salaries had been set by statute and also supplemental funding for Trial Court office and administrative expenses and payroll deficiencies.

Centralization of accounts was continued for judicial salaries, clerical assistance, new personnel, travel, printing, law libraries, jury and witness expenses, equipment purchases, facility rentals, and court-ordered services for masters, court reporters, interpreters, investigators, psychiatrists, guardians, consultants, and use of social service agencies.

Total Trial Court salary expenditures totaled $154,104,280, 68 percent, of all Trial Court expenses, representing, as of June 30, 1987, 5,413 full-time positions and 222 vacancies.

As of December 1987 total funding available for Trial Court operations and facility repair and renovations for FY'88 amounted to $251,659,321 and represented funding as appropriated in Chapter 199 of the Acts of the 1987 (the General Appropriation Act), Chapter 303 of the Acts of 1987 (FY'87 final Supplementary Budget), Capital Outlay funds and certain FY'87 balances authorized to be brought forward and used in FY'88.

Capital Outlay Accounts	1,419,938
Balance Forward	5,446,719
	251,659,321

The FY'88 appropriation provides an Administrative Reserve of $2,100,000 for new OCAJ planning initiatives and maintains the restructuring of the Trial Court Budget by centralizing funding for warranty and rental costs of the Trial Court and consolidating funding of the Probate and Family Court, the Juvenile Court, and the Housing Court Departments in a single department line item each.

Chapter 303 funding of $3,146,459 represents $2,194,459 for FY'87 salary adjustments authorized by Chapter 519, and $952,000 entails the the automation of OCP's CORI system.

The Capital Outlay funding of $1,419,938 enables limited emergency repairs and renovations to be made to some courthouse facilities. The balance of $5,446,719 brought forward in Central Accounts provides funds for certain collective bargaining adjustments and necessary supplements to Chapter 199 funding for facilities, printing, and equipment accounts.

FY88 Personnel Funding. Personnel appropriations included the moving of positions approved in FY87 New Position Reserve to the individual Court Division and Department Accounts and the addition of 23 new positions in various Court Division accounts.

The new Administrative Reserve provides 100 new positions designated for implementation of management initiatives in all departments of the Trial Court and provides funding for the development of management program.

These 123 new positions bring the total number of authorized positions for the Trial Court from 5,635 positions in FY87 to 5,758 in FY88. (This does not include 90-day appointments or the 59 positions pending scheduling approval for the implementation of the CORI.)

Salary funding for FY88 totaled to $168,479,432 or 67 percent of the Trial Court budget. Trial Court Spending Plans projected a sum of $172,923,286 needed to cover FY88 cost for the 5,413 positions (as of July 1, 1987) and for the filling of the 345 vacancies (including new positions) for 11 months or less. The projection fell short by $4,443,854, so 280 to 300 positions must remain vacant during FY88.

Management Initiatives. During 1987 the Accounting and Purchasing section continued to incorporate the Comptroller's MMARS (Massachusetts Management Accounting and Reporting System) into its financial operations. For example, the staff of the Accounting section underwent computer training to correct errors to financial documents on line. Now the Accounting section is able to correct the errors and process the documents electronically. As a result, Trial Court expenses are paid in a more timely fashion.

The Fiscal Affairs Department continued to assist Trial Court Divisions in the area of telecommunications. In 1987 Fiscal Affairs directed the procurement of about 10 new telephone systems for Trial Court Divisions and Offices. Fiscal Affairs also assisted various Trial Court Departments who desired additional telephone service for special sessions or programs. The Fiscal Affairs Department acts as a telecommunications resource for any telecommunications resource problem or issue confronting a Trial Court division or office.

The Fiscal Affairs Department has developed and implemented an inventory control system, which allows for tracking and aging of all Trial Court equipment. Accounting, budgeting, and purchasing for all Trial Court central accounts are now automated.

In early 1988 the initial Trial Court internal audit work plan will be completed. The fiscal systems of each Trial Court Division will have been examined and a report on their financial status will have been issued. These reports allow each division to improve their ability to better manage their financial responsibilities within the framework of the standard accounting system.

PRA System Expansion. The automated Probation Receipt Accounting system (PRA) which runs on the Trial Court's mainframe computer is now online in 38 court divisions via the Trial Court Data Communications Network. One Superior Court Department Division (Suffolk), 27 District Court Divisions, and 11 divisions of the Probate and Family Court Department are currently connected. PRA provides an automated receipt and disbursement system including on-site printing of checks for probation offices. Current plans provide for the addition of 45 court divisions to the PRA network within 24 months.

Financial management. The major initiative to automate the financial management system of the Trial Court and to revise and update all financial audit and accounting procedures has started and will be completed in time for the budget allocation schedules for FY89.

Major Procurements. There are also projects to provide typing/text facilities for judicial secretaries and blanket typing station maintenance. The department is also issuing request for proposals for the expansion of the courtroom testimony recordation system and to make the most space-efficient new filing systems available through the Trial Courts.

Legal Department

Labor Counsel Ilene Robinson

The Legal Department is responsible for the oversight of legal matters within the Trial Court of the Commonwealth and confers regularly with persons within the executive and legislative branches of state government concerning legal and administrative matters.

Legislation. The Legal Department prepares, reviews, and files legislation on behalf of the judicial branch and monitors the legislative process daily. Reports and research material on legislation are also provided to the Massachusetts Judicial Conference at its regularly scheduled meetings. The department responds to inquiries from legislative committees, the Governor's Legislative Office, and interested citizen groups on proposed legislation.

Legislative initiatives which will be pursued in the 1988 legislative session include bills to improve conditions in courthouse facilities, address the need for additional Justices in the court system, the transfer of nonjudicial personnel, provide for representation and indemnification in suits brought against judicial employees acting within the scope of their employment, and many other bills relating to the court system.

Contracts. The Legal Department reviews and approves of all contracts entered into by the Trial Court including contracts to purchase or lease equipment, furnishings, or services. Any necessary amendments to contracts are negotiated and drafted by the department. The department reviewed, negotiated, and, where appropriate, drafted amendments to more than 500 contracts during 1987.

Labor. The department is responsible for the conduct of litigation of labor issues before state and, on occasion, federal courts, the state Labor Relations Commission, the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, the Civil Service Commission, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Department of Employment Security, and for research, preparation of briefs and development of information necessary for litigation, negotiations, grievances, and other related matters. Grievance arbitration is conducted when necessary before arbitrators, and advice is provided on labor issues, negotiations, labor contracts, and personnel and employment law to the Chief Administrative Justice, the Administrator of Courts, department heads, and the director of Employee Relations.

Real Property. The Trial Court leases courthouse facilities from the counties, cities, and towns and private landlords. The department drafts and negotiates leases for 87 county-owned buildings, 13 city and town-owned buildings and 11 privately-owned buildings. It is anticipated that the total rental monies that will be paid under these lease agreements for FY '88 will be approximately $36 million. The department reviews and approves the schedule of costs to maintain and repair courthouse facilities submitted by the counties.

The department oversees new construction and renovation of courthouse facilities and is presently participating in projects involving (1) renovations to the Suffolk County Courthouse and the Third District Courthouse in New Bedford, (2) new construction of courthouses for the Amesbury, Newburyport, and Palmer Divisions, (3) renovation of new space for the Natick and Dorchester Divisions, and (4) studies for the renovation of the Superior Courthouse in Lawrence and Durfee High School in Fall River which was purchased by the Commonwealth for use by the Trial Court.

A capital outlay budget for the judicial branch is developed annually by the department after consultation with the Judicial Facilities Committee. The capital outlay recommendations for FY '89 include 19 project requests at a cost of $100.7 million.

Litigation. Justices, clerk-magistrates, registers of probate, chief probation officers, and other personnel in the Trial Court are sometimes parties to litigation before a court or administrative agency. Many of these cases have broad implications for the entire court system and often require representation of multiple-party defendants on identical issues. The department determines whether the matter should be handled in-house or referred to the Office of the Attorney General for representation. Forty-seven actions, exclusive of labor cases, were commenced against personnel within the Trial Court in 1987.

On August 10, 1987, the Supreme Judicial Court decided Kinan v. Trial Court and others and concluded that the Chief Administrative Justice was the proper party to present a claim against the Trial Court under the Massachusetts Tort Claims Act. The department investigates these claims, assesses liability, negotiates settlements for the payment of valid claims and proposes corrective measures designed to reduce the number of future valid claims.

General. The department, in its principal function to provide research assistance to the Chief Administrative Justice and the Administrator of Courts, prepares memoranda in response to inquiries from the legislative and executive branches of government and responds to questions of a legal nature from within the judicial system and the general public on a variety of subjects. The department drafts and submits to the Chief Administrative Justice proposed administrative directives, orders, correspondence, memoranda, and informational bulletins. It also assists the Chief Administrative Justice with his responsibility to review all proposed rules, rules amendments, and standing orders of the various departments of the Trial Court and provides support to Trial Court committees working in these areas. The Legal Department also provides support assistance in personnel matters, in the development of standards, personnel policies and procedures, and has participated in the continuing effort to develop and standardize forms and procedures throughout the departments of the Trial Court. It also coordinated 196 interdepartmental assignments of Justices pursuant to M.G.L. c. 211B, s. 9 for the Chief Administrative Justice and confirmed nine interdepartmental and 180 intradepartmental assignments of nonjudicial personnel during 1987.

Planning and Development Department

Court Planner Jon Randall

Planning. As the Trial Court looks to 1990, it is apparent that a coordination of efforts is essential to insure that the limited resources available to the courts are maximized. The Office of the Chief Administrative Justice has started an extensive planning process. As we near the end of the 20th century OCAJ recognizes that the complexities of administering justice cannot be supported by 19th century business methods and management systems hampered by limited funds and personnel resources. While primarily based on Agenda '90, Modernizing the Judiciary initiatives, the planning process seeks to examine all aspects of Trial Court administration and to produce a thorough and comprehensive planning document to serve as a blueprint for the succeeding decade.

The Chief Administrative Justice, the Administrator of Courts and staff, the Chief Justices and their management staffs, the Commissioner of Probation, and the Jury Commissioner have met regularly to identify needs, to establish priorities, and to determine the availability of resources to achieve defined goals and objectives.

An outgrowth of these meetings was the production of a three-part document, Planning for the 1990's: Automation Systems, Personnel Systems, Case Flow Management, which discusses proposed projects, the need for integration of certain projects, particularly in the automation area, and projects estimates for budget planning and deadlines to accomplish each project. Planning is an evolutionary process, and it is our expectation that this document will be modified with the passage of time and the accomplishing of certain preliminary tasks in the areas of systems design and personnel allocation. To support the planning effort, a court planner has been hired whose responsibility is to monitor projects to determine the effectiveness of such projects.

Records Management. The Trial Court operates a Records Storage Facility on the grounds of Worcester State Hospital. The facility provides permanent storage for court records required to be kept by statute, court rule or retention schedule. Completing its fourth year of operation in 1987, the facility has reached 68 percent of its capacity, storing more than 12,330 cartons of records from 35 different court divisions. The center has proven invaluable as a site for storage of permanently retained records, alleviating crowded conditions at courthouses.

In January 1987, the Judicial Archives were opened at the State Archives and Record Center at Columbia Point in Dorchester. The judicial archives are maintained as a separate section in the archives building with 12,000 square feet of space. The state archives' staff searches the judicial records for researchers and the public audience. The archives contain irreplaceable court records which date from 1630 to 1860. In a two and a half centuries of court documents, these records provide an unparalleled historical perspective. The evidentiary material submitted with the cases touches on all aspects of social life and the traits of the early documents—handwritten or handmade paper with unique watermarks, seals, and engravings—make many of them historical artifacts. Records are conserved under the auspices of the Supreme Judicial Court's Records Preservation Project. In 1987, 3,666 linear feet of records have been moved to the Judicial Archives. It is estimated that this collection fills 65 percent of the available space at the Judicial Archives. The opening of these records for public use for the first time will lead to new ways of understanding the past.

Judicial Response System. The Judicial Response System completed its third year of operation in July 1987. This statewide system is designed to allow judicial hearings to be conducted anywhere within Massachusetts 24 hours per day; the program operates when the courts are closed.

In the three years of operation, the system has responded to 2,260 calls, with 1,235 received in the third year alone. The third-year total represents an increase in calls of 80 percent over the second year. Trial Court Justices voluntarily served 212 terms of service in the third year, with a term of service being two weeks on call, and two weeks backup. The average number of calls per judge during the third year was six, compared to three in the second year; 19 percent of the participating justices received 11 or more calls.

The largest increase for any single case type came from requests for relief under c.209A (spousal abuse). During the second year, a total of 466 calls were reported as "209A's." In year three, that number more than doubled to 997, representing 81 percent of all requests handled by the system. Emergency requests under the various sections of c. 123 (mental health) comprised seven percent of the calls, while emergency medical requests comprised 4 percent of the calls.

Child Support Guidelines. Pursuant to the Child Support Act, G.L. c.211B, s.15, the Chief Administrative Justice promulgated Child Support Guidelines on an interim basis on May 1, 1987. Such guidelines are in effect until December 31, 1987. At that time, final guidelines will be promulgated.

The development of the interim Guidelines was a rigorous process. A 15-member Advisory Committee on Child Support Guidelines met on seven different occasions and reviewed thousands of pages of literature on child support and the guidelines development process. Written commentary was requested and received from the committee members, the bar, and the general public.

In January, draft Child Support Guidelines were circulated for the purpose of soliciting comments. Copies of the Guidelines were forwarded to the Administrative Justices of the Trial Court, the executive and legislative branches of government, and bar associations. Lawyers Weekly published the proposed Guidelines. As a result, 45 written communications were received, offering suggestions in several important areas. Every effort was made to consider the commentary to determine if and where improvement might be made. The most poignant comments provided insight regarding definition of income, the consequences to the non-custodial and custodial parents where discretion was lacking in the denomination of alimony or separate maintenance, personal exemptions, shared custody, and health insurance.

The application of interim guidelines in the variety of circumstances in which they are employed has been watched closely. An extensive data survey of both court records and of practitioners (attorneys, judges, probation officers, and child support workers) using the guidelines was completed in November. The results of that data survey, plus the written communications received from interested parties, have been considered in the development of the final Guidelines which become effective on January 1, 1988.

Court Interpreting Services. Under Chapter 627 of the Acts of 1986, the Office of Court Interpreting Services (O.C.I.S.) began operating in December 1986. The first initiative established a pilot project to service interpretation needs of the courts in Essex County. Following the assessment of interpretation needs, O.C.I.S. revised and upgraded the job description for language interpreters, as well as the educational requirements and salary level for the position. Prospective court interpreters must now have a college degree, pass a test that measures interpretation and translation skills, and a one-year minimum experience in interpretation. Under the new title of language interpreter, the salary level was upgraded 71 percent to $23,302. A total of three positions was created under the new title. For the two courts with the largest Hispanic populations, one Spanish interpreter was assigned to the Roxbury Division, District Court Department, and an additional Spanish interpreter was hired for the Lawrence Division, District Court Department. The third interpreter acts as the assistant to the coordinator in the design and facilitation of the court interpreter training program.

The development and adoption of a Code of Professional Conduct for Court Interpreters of the Trial Court was one of the major efforts during 1987. These standards were the subject of five public hearings at a statewide level. The Code defines and governs the practice of court interpretation in the Trial Court; thus, a uniform highest quality professional service is expected.

The curriculum for the training of court interpreters was developed after an analysis of comparable programs in the U.S.A. and Canada. The 150-hour program will develop trainees' competency in such areas as interpretation and translation, legal systems, court proceedings, sociology, and criminology. The program will be offered in early 1988 for the first time to a multilingual group. Successful trainees will be eligible to take certification examination and, upon passing the exam, will become part of the register of freelance certified interpreters of the Trial Court.

The certification examination for the Spanish language was developed and administered in the late fall of 1987. Other languages for which certification examinations are currently being developed include Chinese, French, Italian, Portuguese, and Vietnamese. Further language examinations will be developed as the need for such language interpreters is identified.

As part of the structuralization of the system, attorneys for non-English speaking parties and/or witnesses must comply with a "48-hour Notice Administrative Directive" issued by the Chief Administrative Justice and applicable to Essex County courts requesting the appointment of qualified or certified interpreters.

Education and Training. In 1987 education and training efforts shifted from individual or short-term training needs to strategies to affect many employees throughout the state.

One of the most ambitious projects undertaken was the selection of a management training system for the Trial Court. Working with key administrators from the District Court Department Administrative Office, the education and training unit released a request for proposal for the purchase of a management training system.

The selected system was developed by Zenger-

Miller Company of California, a leader in training systems design and development. The package is a multilevel training program which permits flexible selection of materials appropriate to the particular group being trained. Some units are only used for top managers in developing leadership skills, while other units are appropriate for development of supervisory skills in line supervisors.

A pilot project was conducted in the fall for the Chief Justice of the District Court Department and his administrative staff. Systematic implementation throughout the District Court Department will begin in February of 1988. Each department is expected to design an implementation strategy appropriate to their respective needs for FY '89.

The strategic implementation of this program will insure that a comprehensive and cohesive management philosophy is developed and encouraged throughout the Trial Court.

A needs assessment of court officer training requirements was continued and resulted in the design of a proposed curriculum and on-the-job training plan. Court officers also were picked to train new court officers. These trainer court officers participated in a two-day workshop designed to assist them in developing presentation skills and lesson plans.

The most dramatic example of systemwide impact was the addition of two programs to the core curriculum for the 3,000 clerical and support staff. The curriculum, based upon a needs assessment of all job titles within the clerical and support staff job groupings, consists of five workshops. The workshops cover interpersonal communication skills, dealing with the public, conducting on-the-job training, stress management and time management skills.

To expand the systemwide impact of these programs a computerized registered system using bar code technologies was designed by OCAJ microcomputer experts. This system permitted the direct marketing of the programs through a course catalogue to all appropriate employees. This marketing effort generated 1200 requests for the 840 available participant spaces. Twenty-eight programs were conducted from September through December at training sites located across the state with attendees from all departments of the Trial Court.

The education unit continues to manage the central account for education and training which funds the programs conducted by the seven Trial Court Departments and the Office of the Commissioner of Probation.

Goldberg Trust Fund. In 1984, a trust fund entitled the John and Ethel Goldberg Fund was established; the general intent of the fund, administered by the Boston Foundation, gives priority to the continuing professional education of Massachusetts Judges in subjects pertinent to their judicial and administrative duties.

The fund pays the tuition for Trial Court Justices to attend out-of-state educational programs, primarily programs sponsored by the National Judicial College in Reno, Nevada. In 1987, 26 Trial Court Justices from five Trial Court departments were funded by the Goldberg Trust at educational programs. The fund paid $14,245 in tuition.

Law Libraries. During 1987 microcomputers were installed in the Trial Court Law Libraries. The microcomputers are used for several purposes: (1) access to computer-assisted legal research (CALR), including Lexis, Veralex, and Westlaw, (2) building of a union catalogue of holdings using the Online Computer Library Center (OCLC), (3) word processing, and (4) communicating via an electronic bulletin board. Although it has taken time to learn the search strategies and to enter the library holdings into the OCLC database, the results are gratifying as much more information is available to all patrons at each library.

Library services have improved in various libraries for different reasons. Some libraries have increased shelving in order to hold larger collections. Some libraries were painted and/or carpeted to enhance the work environment. Some librarians have put together brochures outlining the library services including location, hours, staff, circulation policy, interlibrary loan policy, microfiche collection, duplicating facilities, and CALR usage.

As services, collections, facilities, and outreach improve, the number of patrons who use libraries has risen. As publicly-funded libraries, the library staff helps a variety of patrons including Judges, law clerks, attorneys, court officers, court reporters, probation officers, district attorneys, law faculty, law students, paralegals, paralegal students, legal secretaries, public officials, public defenders, police officers, students, litigants, inmates and librarians from public, academic, school and special libraries. The diversity of patrons provides a challenge to the staff's ability to provide adequate reference to all, to allocate resources which meet the various informational needs and to allow time to get the daily and long term administrative tasks accomplished.

The 18 Trial Court Law Libraries have changed so much in the last few years due to cooperative committee work and projects, introduction of automation, and the increase of users that the library staff will study how our patron needs will be met from 1990-1995. During 1988 and 1989, the staff will use the planning process developed by the American Library Association to develop a five-year plan including goals, objectives and activities which will be the basis for charting our future.

Departmental Collections. The expansion of bulk purchasing of legal materials for multiple court collections allowed cost savings systemwide and reduced fiscal work.

The lending collections program for travelling District Court Justices continued with success and increased participation.

A new Superior Court Library Committee began work with the departmental librarian to create and implement an improved plan for providing and maintaining adequate resources in all judges lobbies.

Computer-Assisted Legal Research (CALR). As the list of access points grows in number, CALR is now available to Judges, law clerks, and Trial Court administrative attorneys throughout the state. The law libraries and an increasing number of courts have terminals which can access CALR. Judges with compatible equipment are now given the opportunity to access CALR at home.

Public Information. The public information officer worked in conjunction with the law-related education coordinator of the District Court Department on the National Bicentennial Writing Competition. These two employees assisted in the coordination of this Bicentennial event with Chief Justice Edward F. Hennessey of the Supreme Judicial Court, who is also chairman of the Massachusetts Advisory Committee to Honor the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution.

A total of 302 essays from students across the Commonwealth was read and scored twice from a pool of evaluators from the professions of law, the judiciary, education, and journalism. The top essayist won $1500 and a trip to Washington D.C. to meet the President and other federal leaders.

On November 17, 1987, an Awards Ceremony was staged to honor the top 15 secondary and three elementary students from a similar writing competition. Chief Justice Hennessey and Harold Reynolds, Commissioner of Education, were the keynote speakers.

The public information officer edits the Bay State Briefs, the official monthly publication of the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice. It is distributed to 5,700 employees at 110 courthouses in the state's 14 counties. He writes most of the stories and shoots most of the photographs.

He also edits The Annual Report of the Massachusetts Trial Court, an exhaustive yearly study of the state's courts. The 1986 volume was the largest ever with 292 pages, 60 graphs, and 65 photographs.

Late in 1987 OCAJ enhanced its capability to produce publications in house through the purchase of a Macintosh SE Computer, a Laser Writer Plus, and several software packages. The "Mac" boasts a desktop publishing program which eliminates the use of a light table and the cutting and pasting of publication layouts. Desktop publishing provides a more professional look to publications, cuts down on secretarial support, eliminates typesetting costs, and offers many diverse editing options. Several issues of the court newsletter were laid out on the computer using desktop publishing, and the 1987 Annual Report was edited on the Mac.

This officer also is serving on committee to create a brochure for the Massachusetts Probation Service. The Office of the Commissioner of Probation is trying to write and print a new brochure describing the goals of probation and the duties of a probation officer. Publication is expected sometime in 1988.

The public information officer operates as the media liaison for the Chief Administrative Justice and the Administrator of Courts. The media seeks information on a multitude of court subjects, and this officer acts as a source of data for journalists, researchers, students, and the public.

He tackles special projects, such as the procurement of judicial identification cards for new judges. This officer works with the Registry of Motor Vehicles in obtaining the I.D. cards for judges.

L-R, Programmer/Analyst Kirk Obillo, Manager of Systems/Data Processing Richard Duggan, and Associate Executive Secretary Gregory Baler, Superior Ct. Dept.

The Systems/Data Processing Department supports the specification, acquisition or development, and implementation and support of automated information systems for the Trial Court. The department will add new staff authorized by the FY '88 budget.

During the past year the department has continued to support a number of applications running on desktop computers and central computer systems. One of its major efforts was to enlarge and improve its existing computer center and put into productive use at the center a computer system providing increased capacity over previous systems. It also has worked to support expansion of both the Criminal Offender Record database maintained by the Office of the Commissioner of Probation and the Probation Receipt Accounting System managed by OCAJ's Fiscal Affairs Department. With the guidance of the coordinator of Case Management Systems within OCAJ, the department has worked during 1987 to increase the usefulness of the case management systems used in the Superior Court Department.

1988 promises to be a busy year for the department as it seeks to fulfill its charter to deliver information systems to the Trial Court. The department will invest its efforts into the specification, development, and implementation of information systems supporting automated docketing, case management, fiscal and other administrative systems. In delivering such services to Superior Court, District Court, and Probate and Family Court Departments, S&D will work closely with key users from these departments and from the Office of the Commissioner of Probation to:

- define functional requirements, particularly those which can be used to form a common core of functions required across departments,

- define functional requirements connecting the docketing function to record keeping requirements,

- evaluate available software meeting or approaching the functional requirements developed, including evaluation of key issues like statewide cost of such software and source code ownership of the software

- and provide the staff to direct the projects which will create or customize such software and deliver to it to the various court divisions.

To implement the automation plans set by OCAJ for the Trial Court, Systems/Data Processing will be undertaking the specific projects mentioned below during 1988. Systems/Data Processing will implement existing system and pilot projects on down sized mainframe computer systems distributed at a small number of locations initially. Systems/Data Processing hopes to establish network nodes at Brockton and Dorchester Divisions of the District Court Department, and Boston Municipal Court by the end of this fiscal year. Before actual deployment of these nodes in the Trial Court network, S&D will develop criteria to rate the success or failure of this effort so that it can report on the viability of this approach to the Administrator of Courts during the last quarter of Calendar Year 1988.

Another series of projects that the S&D is intended to build the infrastructure required to support Trial Court automation needs. S&D will issue a request for proposal to review its existing network, to examine its likely and potential networking needs, and to design a statewide network meeting those needs in a cost-effective fashion. These results obtained from the performance of the winning plan will be incorporated into revisions of the OCAJ's automation plan and its equipment and personnel budgets. These results will also affect decisions about how we distribute computing power to the court divisions, how we provide access to central systems, like the Probation Central File and the Fiscal systems to be implemented, and how we provide access to services like Lexis. One of the goals of this project will be to provide authorized access through a single workstation to whatever information system, internal or external to the Trial Court, a Trial Court employee needs. In line with this goal, this department is undertaking a project to implement an electronic mail service available to all users with any kind of workstation, whether a dumb terminal or a desktop computer. Systems/Data Processing is also looking into "virtual disk" products which will allow desktop computer users to extend their disk storage by providing access to the disk storage available on central systems. To provide authorized access to any internal Trial Court system and to any appropriate external systems which will provide an eventual gateway from Trial Court systems to systems at the Registry of Motor Vehicles and the Comptroller's MMARS system. This will allow Trial Court departments to transmit motor vehicle offenses from the courts to the Registry. Another goal of this project will add the Juvenile Court Department and the Appeals Court systems into the Trial Court network.

Implementation of new automated systems or improvements to existing systems always raises concerns about the capacity of existing systems to support the additional workload. The department is studying a capacity planning project to meet such concerns. Part of this project will examine existing systems and their capacity to sustain additional work without adversely affecting user response time and ability to complete required work. Another part of this project will project for us, through the use of a computerized mathematical model of our current computer systems, the effect on workload caused by adding hardware resources to existing systems, and spreading workload over multiple small additional systems such as those proposed for use at Brockton Division, District Court Department, and other locations. The fruits of this project will revise our automation plan to reflect proposed spending for the most effective deployment of automated systems.

For the routine needs of Trial Court departments, S&D intends to expand the use of desktop computers in the Trial Court. An initial project in this area will provide every secretary and any interested judge with an OCAJ-specified desktop system, built around standard hardware and software. The Superior Court Department has already begun discussion in this area. The systems will provide word-processing software, personal productivity software, and the hardware access central services like "virtual disk" and electronic mail. Users of this plan will be trained.

During the course of FY '89, S&D will begin a project of major importance to ongoing automation efforts—developing a disaster recovery plan providing fallback for every automated system. By the time that this project begins, S&D will assess the viability of its use of nodes of down sized mainframes in its network and their effectiveness as backup sites for one another. This project will take this assessment into account and provide fallbacks for either a network disaster or a system disaster. This project will require a great deal of time and effort on department's part and, as importantly, on the Trial Court's users' part.

The Massachusetts Trial Court

Introduction. The Massachusetts Trial Court was created in 1978. It consists of seven court departments with 110 divisions throughout the 14 counties of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Each court department is supervised by an Administrative Justice. They are Chief Justice Joseph F. Feeney, Boston Municipal Court Department; Chief Justice Samuel E. Zoll, District Court Department; Chief Justice E. George Daher, Housing Court Department; Chief Justice Francis G. Poitras, Juvenile Court Department; Chief Justice Marilyn M. Sullivan, Land Court Department; Chief Justice Alfred L. Podolski, Probate and Family Court Department, and Chief Justice Thomas G. Morse Jr., Superior Court Department.

By statute there are 281 Trial Court Justices. The governor appoints Judges subject to the approval of the Executive Council.

During 1987 nine new Justices were appointed to wear the black robes. New Justices fill in vacancies caused by retirement, resignation, and death.

In the Superior Court Department Catherine White and John C. Cratsley joined as new Judges. New District Court Justices included Thomas F. Brownell, William W. Teahan Jr., Paul F. Healy Jr., W. James O'Neill, and Joseph I. Dever. And in the Juvenile Court Department new judicial members were James Cronin and Luis G. Perez.

Time Standards. On April 7, 1986, the Supreme Judicial Court issued an order applicable to civil cases entered on or after July 1, 1988 that requires the disposition of civil cases within 24 months from the date of entry in the Superior, District, and Boston Municipal Court Departments. Family law contested matters are to be disposed of within three months of request for trial by either party, and uncontested matters are required to be disposed of within one month from the date of request of hearing. Due to their special nature, juvenile matters are subject to accelerated procedures. The Special Advisory Committee on Time Standards was established by the Chief Administrative Justice to: (1) advise the Chief Administrative Justice as to the implementation of civil time standards throughout the Trial Court and (2) to assist the Chief Administrative Justice in evaluation of various dispute resolution programs. This advisory committee, which meets monthly, is comprised of Justices, court staff, practitioners, and other interested persons. Besides the Advisory Committee, augmented by subcommittees on Case Management, Rules, Court Resources, and Alternative Dispute Resolution, each affected department has established a departmental case management committee to plan for implementation of time standards. The Advisory Committee has been a valuable resource to the several departmental case management committees in the drafting of their implementation plans. Each department affected by the Time Standards Order is required to submit a proposed written implementation plan to the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice for review and comment by the Time Standards Advisory Committee.

1987 Highlights. In the Boston Municipal Court Department civil activity increased by 15.3 percent; the number of DUI cases dropped by 7 percent.

The elimination of trial de novo—where a defendant may appeal the verdict of a bench trial for a jury trial or he may skip the bench trial for a first instance jury trial—in Hampden and Essex Counties is the big news in the District Court Department. This is a pilot program which lasts through June 30, 1989. Upon evaluation either this project will be expanded or these two counties will revert to the de novo system.

The Worcester Division of the Housing Court Department completed its first full fiscal year of operation. New legislation (Chapter 245 of the Acts of 1987) added to the department's jurisdiction when real property affects the health and safety of residents and occupants.

In the Juvenile Court Department a mediation program was established at the Springfield Division for resolving certain juvenile delinquency complaints, and the court plans to automate its Information and Access Systems in all four divisions within the next two fiscal years.

A jurisdictional change occurred within the Land Court Department. A 1987 statute expanded the court's jurisdiction for all matters relating to the title of registered land.

In the Probate and Family Court Department new legislation gave the department concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court Department over paternity actions and civil child support complaints.

In the Superior Court Department a pilot mediation program started in the fall of 1987 at the Suffolk Division. It is a voluntary, fee-paid mediation program.

And a case-tracking order, tested at the Plymouth and Worcester Divisions, will be enacted throughout the department. This order affects the tracking of civil cases.

Boston Municipal Court Department

Jurisdiction. The Boston Municipal Court exercises general criminal and civil jurisdiction for cases originating within the downtown Boston area. The Court hears jury-of-six appeals for the eight Suffolk County Divisions of the District Court Department in criminal and small claims cases, and operates an Appellate Division which publishes opinions relating to questions of civil law.

The Court has final jurisdiction over most criminal offenses where a state prison sentence is not sought. Probable cause hearings are conducted for all other criminal offenses committed within the Court's geographical jurisdiction, including such offenses as murder, rape and arson. The BMC also has jurisdiction over Suffolk County inquests and reviews of petitions for compensation from victims of violent crimes.

Hearings are conducted in both jury and jury-waived civil sessions, and the Court determines such specialized matters as civil commitment of the mentally ill, commitment of criminal defendants for observation, and authorization of psychoactive medications for committed persons. A growing number of requests for restraining orders in domestic violence cases is also heard, as are eviction proceedings, hearings to compel payment of civil judgments, denials of unemployment compensation and firearms license applications, and certain decisions by the Civil Service Commission, local zoning boards, and other administrative agencies.

The Court's 11 Justices are supported by 185 employees, including 30 BMC probation officers, 2 clerk/magistrates, 24 assistant clerk/magistrates, and 17 court officers. Despite increased operating demands—including the creation of new civil and criminal jury sessions, increased remand and small claims limits, large numbers of probable cause hearings (which frequently take more time than trials)—the Court has received no additional employees since the start of Court Reorganization.

Several employees in the Court's four major offices have been reclassified to reflect the changing nature of BMC work. While further changes will be required as the Court's workload evolves, employee morale has improved because of Trial Court recognition of their efforts.

Ten sessions operate daily in the Suffolk County Courthouse, two additional "Remand" sessions operate at the Third District Courthouse in Cambridge. Remand cases are heard by two retired recall BMC Judges for the purpose, and are staffed by Civil Clerk-Magistrate's Office employees assigned to Cambridge on a full-time basis.

Administrative Office and Judges' Lobby. The Administrative Office maintains court financial records, serves as liaison between the BMC and other agencies, and represents the interests of the Court as a whole in interdepartmental planning. The BMC has received planning money to begin the process of automation, and by the end of FY 88 expects to complete the automation planning document.

A new clerical rating has been created and filled to handle records associated with payroll processing and group insurance, freeing scarce Lobby resources for direct support of the Judges.

The two employees responsible for maintaining tapes and publications have been reclassified to reflect their new responsibilities, and have received additional training in their specialties. Current planning calls for automating library operations during the next two Fiscal Years.

Personal computers in the Judges' Library, Lobby clerical area and Administrative Office now provide access to Lexis, Westlaw, and the Law Librarians' computer network.

Authorization has been received from the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice and the Legislature to hire a law clerk to assist the justices with their legal work.

Civil Clerk's Office. M.G.L. c. 218, s. 54 gives the BMC jurisdiction over all civil actions for money damages where a defendant lives or has a usual place of business in Suffolk County.

During FY'87, the BMC's Civil Division experienced increased caseload in areas of new jurisdiction as well as increased activity in most of the Court's traditional areas.

Civil activity increased 15.3% over the previous year. New areas of jurisdiction include small claims appeals from the BMC and the eight Suffolk County primary courts and decriminalized paternity, domestic and reciprocal support (URESAs) matters. A weekly paternity and support session designed to resolve such cases is now operating on a regular basis.

The number of cases remanded from Superior Court grew; it increased 50.8% in FY'87. The Cambridge remand session caseload requires that two assistant clerk/magistrates be assigned permanently to the Cambridge courthouse, and that an additional clerical employee shuttle case documents between Boston and Cambridge several times each week.

Small claims entries have increased 26.3%, and Small Claims Supplementary Process entries have risen by 39%. At the direction of the Chief Justice, Assistant Clerk/Magistrates now conduct pre-trial hearings at the commencement of each business day; mediation is now offered for Small Claims jury appeals in order to increase the number pre-trial settlements as much as possible.

Abuse Prevention Petitions under M.G.L. c. 209A have more than doubled in the last year, and the Civil Clerk's office has worked closely with the Boston Police Department to speed processing of "209A Petitions;" transmittal forms have been jointly designed and approved, and all assistant clerk-magistrates and several deputies have been appointed to hear such matters when they are brought to Court.

Activity in two other areas of civil business has increased during the last Fiscal Year. Civil commitment (mental health) cases are 177% above FY 1986 levels, and cases to compensate victims of violent crimes have increased by 41.7%.

To meet changing demands, the Civil Clerk's Office has been restructured. Employees have been transferred from the Judgment and Recording areas to support Remand and Small Claims staffs, where new responsibilities have been added and hearings in traditional areas have increased substantially. Individual workloads in the Judgment and Recording areas have increased, both because of more of cases, and of reduced staffing.

Criminal Clerk's Office-Primary Court Operations. An apparent drop of 17.4 % in criminal entries at the BMC Primary Court is more an artifact of the record-keeping system than an actual decline in the Court's workload. Two thirds of the reduction in criminal entries (a drop of 2,990 complaints) results from the decriminalization of minor motor vehicle offenses. While criminal motor vehicle complaints dropped by 2,010 in this period, decriminalized motor vehicle citations increased by 1,870. The general criminal caseload - exclusive of motor vehicle cases - has actually dropped only 5.7%.

The rate of citation dispositions has increased to 85%; this is due to the improved coordination between Court and Registry under the new scheme for enforcement of minor motor vehicle laws.

Finally, the Court processed 1,930 requests for clerk/magistrate hearings on motor vehicle infractions (up 48.3% from the 1,302 requests processed in FY 86).

The ratio of general criminal complaints to criminal motor vehicle complaints has shifted from last year's 73%-27% to this year's 82%-18%. In general, motor vehicle entries have remained at about the same level between the two Fiscal Years, but the mix of dispositions has changed considerably, reflecting more decriminalized infractions, fewer criminal complaints, and increased clerk-magistrate hearings and record keeping burdens.

The Court recorded a 7% drop in Operating Under the Influence complaints since last year; the significance of this change will become clearer over time, as underlying trends in this area are revealed.

The Court now operates three Primary Court sessions every day, with overflow sessions as required.

Jury Session. The Jury Session began FY87 with 925 jury cases pending, and by the end of FY 87, this number had been reduced to 917. Since Fiscal Year 1982, the number of cases pending at the end of the Fiscal Year has increased by 547, and the current figure is approximately 2 1/2 times the 1982 number.

A related phenomenon is the reversed proportion of cases received in the First Instance as opposed to de novo appeals. When the Jury Session commenced operations, only 1/3 of all cases were received at the BMC without a primary court trial. In the last two Fiscal Years, the number of First Instance requests has been twice the number of de novo appeals. In effect, criminal cases have now been transferred from the caseload of the primary courts to the more resource-intensive setting of the BMC jury session.

Total dispositions for FY 1987 totalled 3150 defendants. Of these, 156 (5 percent) were withdrawn appeals; the bulk of actual dispositions were made after jury-waived hearings before a BMC judge.

Probation Department. The Probation Department, using two microcomputers and six trained clerical employees, has automated the production of Probation Central File data. This project has been successful in reducing the Court's backlog and keeping it abreast of current reporting needs. Because of the situation, the Office of the Commissioner of Probation has expedited implementation of its centrally automated Management Information System in the BMC. Most BMC Probation contact with the OCP will be fully automated by mid-1988, and one of the microcomputers borrowed from the BMC Administrative Office will be returned for use by another department.

Probation officers now have the ability to refer selected offenders to community agencies so that judicial orders for community service can be carried out. The number of agencies willing to accept such referrals is being increased as the judges continue to increase the number of referrals.

Additional requests for pre-sentence investigations have been encouraged by BMC probation staff, and the number of such investigations has doubled.

District Court Department

L-R, Asst. Executive Secretary Dennis Casey, Chief Justice Samuel E. Zoll, and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Robert Hutchinson appeared at a series of workshops to review a new manual on Registry abstract processing.

Jurisdiction. The District Court Department handles civil matters, small claims (maximum of $1,800), summary process, consumer rights concurrent with the Superior Court Department, death inquests, civil commitments to hospitals, and compensation claims for victims of violent crimes. The department also has concurrent jurisdiction with the Juvenile Court Department in juvenile matters and with the Housing Court Department in housing cases.

In criminal matters, all misdemeanors and felonies with a maximum sentence of two and one-half years at a House of Correction or at MCI Concord and Framingham are heard in the District Court.

The Boston Municipal Court Department has the same jurisdiction as the District Court except its territorial jurisdiction entails downtown Boston. It does not hear juvenile matters.

1987 saw important initiatives begun and completed in the District Court.

Elimination of trial de novo. A historic event was the elimination of trial de novo in criminal cases in two counties—Essex and Hampden—and its replacement with a one-trial system. This change was recommended following an exhaustive study of the issue by a committee of District Court Judges, and the filing of legislation by Chief Justice Samuel E. Zoll of the District Court Department. It represents a major change in District Court procedure that had been sought by judicial reformers for many years. The program is experimental and will be reassessed by June 30, 1989. At that time it will either be expanded to other counties, or the experimental counties will revert to the traditional double trial system. The experiment appears to be working successfully.

Local court management. In 1987 the Administrative Office of the District Court Department moved to address in the District Court a problem that exists in virtually all departments of the Trial Court, the ambiguity in the management responsibilities and relationships of the key local court personnel (in the District Court, the presiding justice, clerk-magistrate and chief probation officer). According to Administrative Regulation No. 1-87, the management responsibilities of these individuals were detailed. The emphasis was placed on the necessity that the court function as an administrative unit, with the presiding justice, clerk-magistrate, and chief probation officer each taking the initiative for the proper operation of their respective offices, all under the leadership of the presiding justice. Monthly management meetings within the court are required. The regulation is part of a policy to heighten accountability for proper administration at the local level.

Court administrators. Another major step taken to improve local court accountability was the filing of legislation to establish the position of court administrator in most district courts. Under the legislation, which was filed by the Chief Justice, the court administrator would be appointed by the presiding judge of the court from a list of candidates drawn up by the Chief Justice. The court administrator would perform the administrative duties now performed by the clerk, but would also serve as the chief operating officer for the entire court. The magisterial role of the clerk would be expanded. Incumbent clerk-magistrates would continue in a magisterial capacity but with an expanded role that would permit them to act in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity in many areas, building upon a major strength of the District Court clerk-magistrates. The chief probation officer would be freed of many administrative responsibilities to concentrate on the professional side of probation.

The legislation is an innovative approach to strengthening local court management and at the same time providing the limited number of District Court judges with relief from constantly escalating caseload.

Regionalization. Another area where District Court administration is being strengthened is at the regional level. The District Court consists of 69 divisions, divided into five regions. Until recently the regional office consisted of a Regional Administrative Judge and a regional coordinator. Thanks to new positions included in the FY'88 budget, each regional office will also now have the services of two law clerks to serve the judges of the region, as well as two performance analysts. The law clerks, who will assist Judges with legal research, represent a new resource in the District Court, which has never had a law clerk program. It is a recognition of the increasing complexity of District Court business. The performance analysts, also a new concept, will provide the administrative office with the ability to identify administrative strengths and weaknesses in the local courts.

Civil time standards. In 1987 the District Court also a standing order to implement time standards in civil cases that have been promulgated by the Supreme Judicial Court standing order. All case preparation will have to be completed by counsel within one year, and a request for trial must be filed in the eleventh or twelfth month after filing. Failure to file the request will lead to automatic dismissal. Other provisions of the order include a tight continuance policy, liberal assessment of cost for delays caused by counsel, and the requirement that motions for continuance be sent to the client. The order is based on the reality that most civil cases are disposed of without the necessity of trial. It seeks to move such cases out of the litigation stream as quickly as possible and with as minimum court involvement. After one year the court takes firm control over court scheduling.

Registry abstracts. The District Court continued its commitment of resources to the improvement of the Registry of Motor Vehicles (RMV) abstract transmission process. These abstracts are extremely important because they are the critical link in informing the RMV of District Court action in motor vehicle license or registration. Proper abstract submission procedures are a necessity for public safety.

In 1987 the District Court Administrative Office issued a comprehensive manual for the coordinator, and a series of five training sessions were then held to review proper abstract processing procedures. The training included a visit to the RMV and an explanation of the Registry abstract process. This has led to closer liaison between the local courts and the Registry, and much improved abstract processing. Training certificates were presented to court personnel who attended the sessions.

The supplemental abstract form was also redesigned in 1987 and will soon be ready for promulgation. The new form will facilitate the prompt transmission of data to the Registry.

Pursuant to statute, the District Court has also explored the possible use of computers to link the Registry and the District Court electronically, and to that end has completed a study of this idea. Such a link has great potential for facilitating the prompt exchange of information, and may also be the method by which to provide the local district courts with a computer capability for use in other areas of court business. This project will continue in 1988 with the likely establishment of three pilot sites.

Continuing education. Several major continuing education initiatives were commenced in 1987.

The administrative office and the District Court Committee on Continuing Education presented a second annual conference for judges at Williams College in Williamstown. This three-day presentation concentrated on sentencing and other dispositions in criminal cases and new laws and procedures in driving under the influence cases.

The District Court maintained its library of educational videotapes for judges. These tapes concentrate on subjects of interest to judges, and are available on loan for in-court or home viewing by judges. In addition, the District Court has taken steps to equip all of its courts with videotape players in 1988 in anticipation of a major concentration on presenting educational material to the local courts by videotape.

During 1987 the administrative office joined with the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice to plan a major management training effort for the District Courts. Zenger-Miller Inc., a training house of international reputation, was selected to present a series of five-day management training sessions for District Court presiding justices, clerk-magistrates, and chief probation officers. The District Court Chief Justice, Regional Administrative Judges, and senior staff have already participated in the training, and the first programs for the local courts will be presented in February 1988.

A New Judges Committee was established. All new Judges are automatically members of the committee during the year of their appointment and for four years thereafter. It is hoped that the committee will more closely examine the needs of new judges, particularly from the standpoint of continuing education.

Judicial practice aids. A major "continuing education" function of the administrative office is to provide the courts with materials that will assist them in applying the law and in making the application of the law as uniform as possible throughout the District Court. Several such publications were issued in 1987, and new initiatives were undertaken. The District Court Jury Trial Manual was revised and reissued. Work continued on a rewrite of the District Court Model Jury Instructions. These instructions will be reissued in their expanded, revised format in 1988. They are the work product of the District Court Committee on Juries of Six and administrative office staff.

Another major practice aid issued in 1987 was the District Court Penalty Book. Prepared by the District Court Committee on Uniform Complaint Language and administrative office staff, this book contains a listing of District Court offenses and indicates the statutory penalty applicable to each. The book will be updated as necessary, and is being expanded to include many additional offenses. The book is a prelude to including the penalty on the criminal complaint itself as part of the automated SYSTEM-ATIC-I criminal case processing system now in use in all District Court Divisions.

Two committee projects will yield two additional practice aids soon. The Committee on Care and Protection and CHINS proceedings has completed the revision of the standards of judicial practice in the area of care and protection proceedings. The standards are expanded, and will be issued in 1988. The Committee on Mental Health has been reconstituted and its jurisdiction expanded to include the field of mental retardation. The committee has begun a major revision and expansion of the District Court civil commitment standards and related forms.

Support enforcement. Reversing the trend of declining annual percentage increases that had been evident over the past few years, nonsupport collections rose approximately 18 percent over 1986, 30 percent over 1985. Total collections were a record $42 million. This is attributable in part to increased filings and speedier dispositions under the new civil support system. Speedy dispositions are also consistent with Special District Court Rule 209, which established a goal of six weeks from the date of filing to entry of an initial order, and with Administrative Regulation 4-86 which established a uniform docketing and tracking system to prevent undue delays in child support cases.

The promulgation in May 1987 by Chief Administrative Justice Arthur M. Mason of the interim Child Support Guidelines set higher support orders. According to a comparison of orders set before and after the guidelines, the average AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) order jumped 76 percent, and non-AFDC orders increased approximately 67 percent.

Two support enforcement bulletins were published by the District Court Administrative Office in 1987. One highlighted the details of the new support statute, and the other explained the nature of the new "interstate income withholding" cases, which are exclusively within the jurisdiction of the District Court. Special District Court Rule 210 was promulgated in July 1987 to establish procedures for these interstate actions.

Law-related Education. During the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution LRE programs flourished. Through two federally funded programs and other initiatives in the district courts, LRE moved toward institutionalization in the courts and the schools.

With the District Court/Community LRE Partnership Program, the District Court reached 750 court and school professionals, and thousands of students. Leadership training, local in-service training for court and school personnel, the first statewide student LRE conference, and the first LRE partnership conference made 1987 an exceptional year.

LRE Coordinator

Other accomplishments of the LRE Partnership Program included the creation of local LRE libraries; the creation of a LRE diversion program in Brighton and the LRE Leadership Academy, the creation of the Western Massachusetts LRE Collaborative, the establishment of a model LRE partnership program in Hingham, and advanced LRE training for Massachusetts LRE leaders. The District Court LRE program cosponsored the National Bicentennial Competition on the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This cooperative effort involves more than 170 educators, thousands of students, the Massachusetts Congressional delegation, and the John F. Kennedy Library.

Mediation. During 1987 the District Court Mediation Project undertook several initiatives—both legislative and fiscal—to institutionalize community mediation within the District Court.

Chief Justice Zoll filed legislation to establish a community mediation advisory board to assist the Mediation Project in developing appropriate guidelines for services and expenditures. The legislation also provided for a full-time staff member to coordinate mediation activities. The legislation was passed by the Legislature at the end of its session and signed by the Governor in January 1988.

To create a stable funding base for community mediation, contracts for service between local divisions and mediation programs were developed in five courts—the Greenfield, Springfield, Westfield, Dudley, and Framingham Divisions. An appropriation of $150,000 was included in the Trial Court budget to support a variety of mediation-related activities in the District Court, including technical assistance to programs, planning grants, pilot programs, public education, and research.

The District Court believes that the training of volunteer mediators is key to the quality of mediation services. The administrative office sponsored a three-day institute for experienced mediation trainers, "A Fresh Look at Training." This event brought together 30 individuals from Massachusetts and seven other states to examine all aspects of training, selecting trainees, setting goals, designing agendas, conducting role plays, conveying concepts through various activities, and evaluation.

More than 1,000 community members volunteer their services to local mediation programs. Chief Justice Zoll thanked them personally when he delivered the keynote address to the third annual conference of community mediators cosponsored by the Massachusetts Association of Mediation Programs and the District Court.

The Mediation Project also assisted the Fitchburg District Court in establishing a new mediation program to serve its community, and facilitated the extension of mediation services to the Dudley, Westfield, Roxbury, and Brookline Divisions.

Recordation. The District Court also took several steps as part of its continuing effort to improve the quality of electronic courtroom recording in the District Court Courts. Recording quality coordinators were designated for each division, and three all-day training sessions were held for the coordinators in the Baird-equipped courts. Certificates were presented to those participating. Training for the Lanier-equipped courts will take place in early 1988.

In addition, signs have been placed on counsel tables throughout the District Court, reminding counsel of their responsibility to effectively utilize the recording equipment that is available.

Rule 114, the District Court rule covering electronic recording, was revised in 1987, and the procedures for public access to courtroom recordings of public proceedings in the District Court were relaxed.

Other activities. Many other projects and activities were undertaken in 1987. Among the significant:

- A monograph was issued identifying the most prevalent problems in District Court fiscal processing, and how to correct them.

- The Chief Justice filed legislation to improve the handling of outstanding arrest warrants and also relieve the pressure on local police lockups caused by arrests of defaulters.

- An operations review of the Plymouth Division was performed, and a review of the Charlestown Division was begun. A review of the Roxbury Division is also planned.

- Several computer-related initiatives were undertaken, including the further expansion of the SYSTEMATIC-II case processing system to another experimental court, and the development of a pilot system for the computerized processing of minor motor vehicle citations in the courts.

- A form was designed, tested and promulgated for use in facilitating proper reporting under the Safe Roads Act. These reports identify locations where defendants were drinking prior to arrest on drunken driving charges.

Housing Court Department

Clerk-Magistrate Robert Lewis, Boston Division, and OCAJ's Personnel Coordinator Andrea Gregory

Jurisdiction. The Housing Court Department, established in 1972, handles landlord-tenant disputes, small claims, and violations of housing and sanitary codes. There are three divisions, Boston, Worcester, and Hampden County.

When the Housing Court was created, jurisdiction was generally limited to issues revolving around landlord-tenant disputes. In 1979 the jurisdictional grant was expanded to enable the court to hear all housing cases, but limited to problems arising out of landlord-tenant disputes. This past year the Legislature determined that the Housing Court Department should have the power to address the environmental issues that affect the general public. Chapter 245 of the Acts of 1987 has transformed the department into an environmental court. The Court now has jurisdiction of "the use of any real property and activities conducted thereon as such affects the health, welfare and safety of any resident, occupant, user or member of the general public and which is subject to regulation of local cities and towns under the state building code, state specialized codes, state sanitary code and other applicable statutes and ordinances." The Legislature recognized that it was difficult to separate the issue of housing from other problems affecting the general environment of the cities and towns.

Boston Division. This interaction of the environment with housing was the causation of a new program in the Boston Division for the noncriminal disposition of: ordinance, bylaw, municipal rule and regulation violations intended to improve living conditions. Pursuant to M.G.L., c. 40, s. 21D, the City of Boston exercised the option of issuing a written notice to offenders of certain ordinances to appear before the clerk-magistrate of the Housing Court. While this program has caused additional strain on the resources of the Boston Division, it will improve the quality of life in the city. The court undertook this additional burden in the belief that Boston could never be a first class city until the problem of trash disposal and illegal dumping, which contribute to unhealthy living conditions, to say nothing of appearance, be eradicated. Although the program was only activated in the spring of 1987, the volume potential has proven to be enormous and growing. It was because of this anticipated growth, that the court required the city to undergo a probation period to resolve and address as many problems as possible before being activated. The program itself could not have been implemented without the help and cooperation of the Suffolk County Courthouse Commission and Chief Administrative Justice Arthur M. Mason.

Within the brief period of time that the program has been in existence, 13,213 notices were given. A total of 2,077 hearings were requested, and the court was able to hear 1,322 before the end of the fiscal year. The court has received numerous inquiries from throughout the Commonwealth, and in the next fiscal year, the program will be put into effect in other cities and towns.

In the last fiscal year the Boston Division was confronted with a staggering increase in criminal cases and where last year the court had 4,965 criminal cases, this year, the number is 7,282. The division has managed to keep its caseload current because of the innovative management techniques that the court has developed.

Worcester Division. FY '87 was the first full fiscal year of operation for the Worcester Division. The Worcester Division has jurisdiction over disputes arising out of property located in the four cities and 56 towns of Worcester County (an area 44 percent larger than Rhode Island) and the Town of Bellingham in Norfolk County.

Of Worcester's 10 weekly sessions, six are held at the Worcester County Courthouse, two in Fitchburg and one each at Uxbridge and Dudley. During FY'87 the Worcester Division responded to many requests for training/orientation sessions by tenants, landlords, attorneys, and inspectors. The task of acquainting people with the geographical and subject matter jurisdiction of the court will continue for several years. But the court has proven to be so successful in the short time that it has been in operation that on its first anniversary, Governor Michael S. Dukakis joined with the court and municipal officials in celebrating the court's accomplishments.

Hampden County. The events of 1987 were highlighted by the appointment of the Honorable William H. Abrashkin as the third Presiding Justice of the Hampden County Division, succeeding retiring Justice Edward C. Peck Jr. The number of cases filed in the Hampden County Division rose again by 5 percent to almost 8,000. More than 3,500 of these were summary process cases, which each year become more complicated because of societal, legal, and legislative changes.

As in the past, both the Judge and the clerk-magistrate appeared through the county at public meetings consisting of owners, tenants, public groups, lawyers, sheriffs, and inspectors to increase public awareness of the Housing Court, and how best they can be utilized.

Asst. Clerk-Magistrate Paul Groesebeck, Worcester Division

Juvenile Court Department

Jurisdiction. The Juvenile Court Department consists of four divisions in Boston, Bristol County, Springfield, and Worcester. Within their respective jurisdiction, the divisions deal with all cases of delinquency, CHINS (Children in Need of Services), and Care and Protection petitions. In those areas without juvenile courts, similar jurisdiction is exercised through the juvenile sessions of the District Court Department. The divisions of the Juvenile Court Department also exercise jurisdiction over all de novo appeals within their respective counties.

The department has always encouraged the development of client support programs and the extension of successful pilot programs to other division jurisdiction where similar needs prevail and implementation mechanisms are available. The Boston Division's Citizenship Training Group (C.T.G.), in its 51st year, the Springfield Division's Youth Development and the Worcester Division's Y.O.U. Inc. continue to provide intensive supervision and a variety of rehabilitative services to selected court-involved youth. To establish healthy work habits and a sense of accountability, as well as to provide for court-directed monetary assessments, alternative sentencing to community service work assignments and some income producing work projects have been developed in all divisions.

Divisions of the Juvenile Court Department have also implemented somewhat differing types of programs where first offenders guilty of minor infractions are allowed the opportunity of diversion from the formal criminal justice system while still receiving some recommended services. Selections are made on an individual basis, and all parties must agree to the case plan. The Worcester Division has an ongoing truancy screening committee, which includes representatives from the school, the Department of Social Services, parents, and attorneys, if desired. Chaired by an assistant chief probation officer, this committee attempts resolution of individual truancy problems on an informal basis. In Boston, every effort is made after the initial interview assessment and during the subsequent, continuous monitoring of behavior, to secure support services in appropriate CHINS cases while diverting individual children from the formal judicial process.

In the Boston Division, with the cooperation of the Boston Public Schools, a probation officer is assigned to each school who besides his or hers normal case supervisory duties, acts as a resource advisory person for school personnel. Early identification of those children displaying attendance, discipline, and family problems, coupled with the provision of appropriate services, can help prevent many of these children from entering the juvenile justice system. The Springfield Division has established a mediation program for resolving certain delinquency complaints that lend themselves to agreement of the parties, and Worcester has expanded its two-year-old CHINS mediation program.

Consistent with its commitment to help educate the public in the area of children's needs and the role of the court in addressing these needs, court staff from all divisions continue to appear, upon request, before various medical, legal, social, and other community and child advocacy groups. The Springfield Division continues its involvement with the local school systems via its "Law-Related Education" program, and staff continues to serve on the advisory committees of two area colleges. In Bristol County, the New Bedford office continues its orientation and education programs for secondary school students which includes the opportunity to visit the courts and discuss court personnel roles and responsibilities. Staff participated in department in-service and outside training sessions, both as faculty and students, and served on various judicial and legislative committees.

The Boston and Worcester Divisions' CASA Programs (Court Appointed Special Advocates) continue to recruit and train qualified volunteers from diverse backgrounds, who act as guardians ad litem in care and protection proceedings. Their goals are to advocate for a child's best interest and to help insure that child abuse and neglect victims who have been removed from their own homes do not languish in temporary foster homes. A comparable program is being established in the Springfield Division. The Worcester Division recruited, trained, and matched college student volunteers with court-connected youth in their own version of a Big Brother/Big Sister program.

The Court Clinic program provided psychiatric and psychological services through both direct and purchase of service methods. Adolescent therapeutic groups are used to assess the members' needs and to buttress the efforts of clinic and probation staff toward further delinquency prevention. Group treatment includes the development of socialization and interpersonal skills and the dissemination of information on such topics as community, school and family relationships, and drug and alcohol abuse.

Often the problems presented in the cases that come before the court are complex, and the services of more than one agency are required for their resolution. To assist the court in obtaining these services and to insure their coordinated delivery, the Executive Office of Human Services continues to assign a staff person to serve as liaison between its agencies and the Boston Division. This liaison has expedited the provision of appropriate services to the mutual clients of the court and the agencies.

During FY 1988 and 1989, the Juvenile Court Department plans to complete the development and implementation of its automated Information and Records Access Systems in all four of its divisions. This includes the installation of equipment as well as standard and custom software, hardware, record conversion, and training of personnel in equipment and software manipulation.

While not resolving the inadequate physical facilities in the Boston and Worcester Divisions, the system will improve the delivery of services necessary to fulfill the obligations of the Court to its clients and to the community. Automation will provide for better scheduling of court sessions, more efficient allocation of personnel and services, and improved fiscal and caseload management.

Land Court Department

Jurisdiction. The Land Court Department, established in 1898, has jurisdiction over most real property matters and disputes. Founded to implement and supervise an alternative method of maintaining land records throughout the state, the Torren system, the Court's jurisdiction continued to expand. The Court has exclusive jurisdiction over the registration and confirmation of land titles, real estate tax lien foreclosure cases, and a variety of actions involving title to unregistered land under M.G.L. Chapters 237 and 240. With other court departments, it shares jurisdiction over subdivision

Assistant to the Recorder Barbara

and zoning matters and mortgage foreclosure cases. Every month the number of such cases (which the Court categorizes under the heading "Equity and Miscellaneous") increases.

The most significant change in the Court's jurisdiction in 1987 was the expansion of its exclusive jurisdiction to include all matters relating to the title of registered land. This expansion of jurisdiction is natural because of the expertise developed by the Court in the area of registered land over the 89 years of the Court's existence.

Automation. The Land Court's automation of its docketing system is nearing completion. OCAJ systems personnel installed software to handle cases involving registered land, called "S" cases, or cases subsequent to registration, as well as the program to handle docketing of registration and confirmation cases. A public access terminal and printer are now available and used by many having business at the Court. As to case docketing proper, all that remains to be done is the automation of the Court's Miscellaneous case docketing function. It is the Court's intention to "network" the various docketing workstations in 1988 and to expand the uses of data collected.

Engineering Division Study. Late in the year, a request for proposal for a study of the Court's Engineering Division was issued, and two responses were received and evaluated. The successful bidder will examine and evaluate Engineering Division procedures, equipment, and work assignment practices. It is expected that useful and practical recommendations will be made to enable the Court to expedite the work of the Engineering Division. In the meantime, the Court has continued to explore internal recommendations to enhance the operation of the division.

Case Management. Due to a steady increase in trials of matters arising in the case category of "miscellaneous," it has been necessary to adopt a new case management plan. The Court will place cases on compulsory calls of the list when an application has been made to assign the case for trial. Unless the Court excuses attendance or authorizes a call date change, the attorneys must appear or be defaulted.

Failure of plaintiffs' attorneys to appear may result in dismissal without prejudice. Dockets will be reviewed periodically and the Court, on its own motion, may assign cases to a call of the list. It is expected that this plan will help keep the Court's calendar moving.

Liaisons with registered land offices. Late in the year the Court began to assess the level of automation at the state's registered land offices which are located in the county operated Registries of Deeds. The purpose of this project is to ensure that the records of registered land are being processed, maintained, and made available to the public in a form and manner consistent with the requirements of M.G.L. c. 185. The Court supports efforts to modernize record keeping at the registries but wishes to ensure that the records over which the Court has jurisdiction are kept adequately, and with some degree of uniformity.

Centralized Form Printing. With the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice and the Probate and Family Court Department, the Land Court embarked upon a centralized forms printing project. It is expected that long range planning for the procurement of forms from a single responsible source, coupled with the redesign of a number of the Court's forms will result in a savings of time and money for the Court and for the public.

Courtroom Taping Systems. Due to the increasing difficulty of securing the services of qualified private court stenographers, the Court has acquired automatic taping systems for its two courtrooms. With the assistance of other departments of the Trial Court with such matters as duplication and transcription of tapes, the Court has resolved to use the taping technology to the advantage of all those who must rely on it whenever it is impossible to obtain the services of stenographers.

Recorder as Clerk-Magistrate Effective Sept. 14, 1987, M.G.L. c. 185, s. 6 was amended by the to provide that Recorders of the Land Court Department shall have the same powers of a clerk-magistrate in the Superior Court Department in civil matters. It is expected that the expansion of the powers of the Recorder to permit the exercise of quasi-judicial functions will lessen to some degree the burden on the Court's three Justices.

Condominiums. The surge in construction of new condominiums and the conversion of existing buildings to condominium status continues unabated throughout the state despite efforts of various cities and towns to slow the process. The Court reexamined its requirements for review of both condominium documents and plans by its legal and engineering staff with a view to expediting these processes. The elimination of some of the requirements is intended to make it easier and quicker to process these complex documents through the Court. This will benefit the purchasers of registered land condominium units and those represent them. The fundamentals of the condominium review, however, were not abandoned in keeping with the Court's position that such reviews protect the condominium unit owner.

Repair of Drafting Tables. For many years the Court's drafting employees have worked on engineering light tables which were in various states of disrepair. In 1987, all 12 light tables were repaired. This will increase the productivity of the men and women who draft Land Court plans and should contribute to the productivity of the Court's Engineering Division.

1988 Management Initiatives

Automation. Computerization of the Land Court functions will continue to be a major priority in 1988. Automation of the Court's docketing system will be ongoing in that the Court hopes to expand and enhance what has been achieved thus far. Workstations will be "networked" so that work can be shared and information made more accessible to more people. Information gathered through computerized docketing will be put to other uses, for example, to compile statistics accurately and prepare management reports and plans.

It is hoped that the Court's Trial Clerk's Office will be automated as well. The computerization of the Court's calendar will enhance case flow and enable Justices of the Court to better manage their time. It is hoped also that an automated calendar can be tied to the computerized docketing system, a step that would enhance case management. This project hinges on the rewiring of part of the Court's premises; the Trial Clerk's Office has direct current only.

The Court's Budget and Payroll Office has alternating current and many of the tasks performed in that office lend themselves well to computerization. The Court plans to investigate seriously the possibility of automating as many of the functions of that office as possible.

Telephone System. It is the intention of the Department to have installed in Fiscal Year 1989 a new telephone system; the present system is inadequate to meet the needs of the public served by the Court.

Sound Systems. The department plans to equip its two courtrooms with new sound systems. Existing acoustical systems are inadequate to meet the needs of the those having business at the Court. Successful completion of this project is contingent also upon rewiring.

Engineering Division Study. The Court intends to improve the operation of its Engineering Division by implementing recommendations of outside experts in the survey engineering field. Such recommendations may include acquisition of additional computer-aided drafting equipment and word processors and, perhaps, the expansion of the number of surveyors on the Court's staff. Implementation of the recommendation will perhaps require that the Court conduct seminars to educate private surveyors in new methods to be used in presenting plans for filing with the Court.

Registry Liaison. The Land Court Department intends to reaffirm its close ties to the 21 registered land offices over which the Court has authority. The goals of this project include the conduct by the Court of educational seminars for Registers of Deeds (in their capacity as Assistant Recorders of the Court) and their staffs, regular visits of Court personnel to local Registries, and the implementation of uniform practices and procedures at the registered land offices.

Case Storage Project. The Land Court, like many other departments, has run out of space in which to store cases. The Court also requires additional storage areas for the numerous large linen plans filed at the Court. Efforts will be made in 1988 to move as many cases as possible outside Court premises. With cases moved to storage, the Court will be able to move some of its employees to better working areas.

Court Facilities. Most of the Land Court's efforts to improve its facilities have been focused on cosmetic improvements such as carpeting and painting. Even when funds have been made available to improve more serious flaws at the Court, the projects cannot be undertaken because their success is contingent upon completion of major structural repairs and rewiring of the Old Suffolk County Courthouse.

The need for alternating current has become acute. The purchase of new typewriters, the need for fans in the summer and the acquisition of a cash register are matters which, under normal circumstances, should be routine. Under existing conditions each of these matters assumes the characteristics of a major project.

Wiring is just one of the many facilities-related problems that exist at the Court and the Court is aware that it shares these difficult circumstances with other Departments and their Court Divisions. A major management initiative for 1988 will continue to maintain the morale of Court employees who work under these very trying conditions and try to resolve these problems.

Probate and Family Court Department

At left, Judge Robert Yasi addresses a class from Boston English High School. To the right of Judge Yasi is Asst. Chief Probation Officer Richard O'Neil, Suffolk Division. In 1987 the Probate and Family Court Department started a pilot LRE project at the Suffolk and Norfolk Divisions.

Jurisdiction. The Probate and Family Court Department, the third largest department of the Trial Court, has jurisdiction over such family-related matters as divorce, separate support, family abuse (concurrent), custody and adoptions, as well as probate matters such as wills, trusts, guardianships, conservatorships. It also has general equity jurisdiction the basis for new types of cases such as "right to die" actions, medical treatment of incompetents and administration of anti-psychotic medications. Fiscal Year 1987 was the first year of new concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court Department over civil paternity and nonsupport actions. Toward the end of the fiscal year the Court was given jurisdiction over another new cause of action, the disabled person's abuse protection petition.

There are 37 permanent judges and four recall justices assigned to the department's 14 divisions, one for each of the Commonwealth's 14 counties. Each division has an elected Register of Probate and the number of assistant registers and clerical employees varies. Each division, except the two island counties of Dukes and Nantucket, has a Family Service (Probation) Office which provides support enforcement, mediation and investigation services for the Court.

Case Management. Case management, child support enforcement, automation, and uniform forms printing all received substantial attention in the department during the fiscal year.

The department maintained its case management initiatives during the fiscal year. The continued use of full-time satellite sessions in the Concord, Marlboro, Lawrence, and Wrentham Divisions of the District Court Department, and the Boston University School of Law assisted the court in disposing many complex and long cases. Using the part-time satellite sessions in Fitchburg, Lowell, West-boro, and various state schools and hospitals, the Court conducted regular sessions for cases in which trials at the shire towns would have been inconvenient or difficult.

The Case Flow Management Committee visited each division; all divisions have now been visited three times. The committee meets with local Justices, registers, registry and probation staff, and local bar associations. It makes recommendations to the chief Justice and the Chief Administrative Justice on its findings. The implementation of these recommendations have brought the department into compliance with the Supreme Judicial Court's time standards for disposition of cases, which take effect in July 1988, in most of the divisions. The committee will begin a fourth round of visits in FY'88 to assure statewide compliance with that deadline.

Child Support. Child support enforcement was an important topic in 1987, as the Court implemented c.310 of the Acts of 1986. This gives the Court concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court Department over paternity actions and civil child support complaints. Mandatory wage withholding increased child support collections by the court's Family Service Officers from the 1986 level of $63 million to a record $73 million. The new causes of action brought in more than 2,500 new cases statewide during the year, the single most significant change in the court's business. More than 14,000 implemented and suspended income assignment orders were entered to provide security for payment of support orders.

Superior Court Department

Chief Administrative Justice Arthur M. Mason addresses the annual Clerk-Magistrates meeting in May 1987.

Jurisdiction. The Superior Court Department, concurrently with the Supreme Judicial Court, has original jurisdiction of civil actions and matters in which equitable relief is sought, cognizant under the general principles of equity jurisprudence and exclusive original jurisdiction of all actions in which injunctive relief is sought in any matter involving or growing out of a labor dispute. The court has original jurisdiction over the processing of all petitions on motions seeking authorization for an abortion under M.G.L., c. 112, s. 125, as well as exclusive jurisdiction for the convening of medical malpractice tribunals under the provisions of M.G.L. c. 231, s. 60B.

In criminal matters, the Court has original jurisdiction of all crimes and generally exercises jurisdiction over all felony matters except those which other courts, by statute, have original or concurrent jurisdiction.

Administrative Initiatives. The Superior Court Department has undertaken several initiatives to expedite the fair and orderly disposition of cases.

On the civil side, case tracking systems are now in place in Plymouth and Worcester Counties. There are several features of the tracking system worth noting.

First, it accentuates that the role of the judiciary is not only to try cases, but to be actively involved in the overseeing and managing of cases.

Second, recognizing the variety of actions entered in the Superior Court, there are three separate tracks (time schedules) to accommodate the very simple to the very complex case.

Third, there is always a "next scheduled event." This tells counsel what is expected to be accomplished, and when it is to be accomplished. Since counsel must determine whether it is in the best interest of their clients to go forward to the next scheduled event, this encourages early and continual evaluation of their cases which should lead to more informed and earlier decisions on bringing cases to conclusion.

To meet the civil time standards established by the Supreme Judicial Court which are applicable to civil cases entered on or after July 1, 1988, a unified case tracking system, based on the Plymouth and Worcester model, will be implemented statewide in 1988.

This statewide tracking order, which goes into effect April 1, 1988, is the result of the combined efforts of the judiciary, the clerk-magistrates and their assistants, and the Massachusetts Bar.

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) is compatible and a necessary adjunct to the tracking system. The use of conciliators continues to be an effective tool and the ADR methods such as summary trials are being used more.

A mediation program has been ongoing in Hampden County for the last year. This is a voluntary mediation program run under the aegis of the court in which the parties agree to submit to mediation. Although the report of the mediator is non-binding and has no evidentiary value, there has been a high incidence of success of cases being resolved without the need of a court trial. This mediation program is being expanded to the other western counties.

A pilot mediation program was instituted in Suffolk County in November 1987. This is a voluntary, fee-paid mediation program.

To promote continuity control of cases, and a more effective use of judicial time, wherever possible, Judges will be assigned in 1988 for a minimum of three months in one location.

In Middlesex County, judges will be assigned to a particular session. Once that case is assigned, all aspects of that case (hearing of interlocutory matters, discovery, conferences, trials assignments, and hearing of trial) will be controlled by that Judges. This individual room-list concept goes into effect January 1988.

To help reduce the workload of the clerk's office, a standing order has been implemented which does away with the clerk's office. A similar room-list concept on the criminal side was implemented in 1987 and has proven successful.

These initiatives have been bolstered by the recent increase in the number of law clerks and legal secretaries assigned to the Superior Court.

Two types of computer-aided transcript equipment (CAT) are presently being tested by court reporters in Essex and Plymouth Counties and once evaluated, CAT equipment will be made available to others. This should greatly reduce the time it now takes to procure transcripts and speed up the trial and appellate process.

A Superior Court Committee on Automation is about to make recommendations as to the type of

Clerk-Magistrate Joseph Sollitto, Dukes Division

Asst. Clerk-Magistrate Archie, Suffolk Division, and Asst. Clerk-Magistrate Janice Uggucioni, Norfolk Division hardware and software to be purchased to enable the judicial system to function more efficiently.

Compatibility of equipment throughout the system, capacity for growth and networking, and proper training of personnel will be emphasized.

Lastly, the role of the Regional Administrative Justice is about to be strengthened and defined. To aid the Regional Administrative Justices will be the newly-created positions of regional coordinators who will be hired in 1988.

Introduction

The following section of the Annual Report presents detailed data on the various caseload of the Massachusetts Trial Court. Different court departments record and report caseload data at various levels of detail and in categories best suited to explain caseflow within their respective legal jurisdiction.

This report presents tables and graphs which, as data permits, includes the following:

- cases pending at the start of the fiscal year
- cases added
- cases disposed of or otherwise terminated
- cases pending at the end of the fiscal year
- age of the caseload pending at the end of the fiscal year.

These five basic data elements are also used to generate a series of indicators of a department's effectiveness in meeting its demands. These indicators include:

- comparison of end pending volume to start pending volume
- throughput or rate of dispositions relative to the rate of cases added
- historic comparisons of cases pending, cases added, or cases disposed
- analyses of the composition of the categories of cases pending or added and of the types of dispositions.

Finally, the report presents a brief narrative overview of the data from each department. The narrative points out and attempts to explain any trends, highlights, and peculiarities of the data which follow.

Please note that the Trial Court statistics are based on Fiscal Year 1987 (July 1, 1986 to June 30, 1987). The statistics for the Office of the Commissioner of Probation and the Office of the Jury Commissioner were compiled for Calendar Year 1987.

Boston Municipal Court Department

This section contains data tables and graphs displaying information on the movement of cases in five case types through the Boston Municipal Court Department during Fiscal Year 1987.

Criminal

Criminal caseload data is comprised of motor vehicle, domestic relations criminal, and other criminal complaints.

During FY87 the BMC received 14,230 complaints. This is a decline of 2,990 complaints, or 17.4 percent from FY86. Domestic relations criminal complaints decreased by 37 entries, or 28.7 percent from the previous fiscal year, while motor vehicle and other criminal complaints decreased by 44.1 percent and 7.5 percent, respectively. This is attributed to a recent law, effective July 1, 1986, that decriminalized several motor vehicle offenses into the category of "Civil Motor Vehicle Infractions" (CMVIs). Under this statute the Registry of Motor Vehicles enforces the CMVIs. Overall, entries have steadily decreased for the past four fiscal years.

Decriminalized Motor Vehicle Violations

Effective January 1, 1979, all motor vehicle violations which do not carry the penalty of imprisonment and for which the maximum penalty does not exceed $100 for the first offense are classified as decriminalized matters.

In FY87 the department recorded 18,560 citations returned from area law enforcement agencies. This is an increase of 1,870 citations, or 11.2 percent over FY86. The citations issued have been climbing since FY83.

Jury-of-Six Caseload

The department began FY87 with 960 active jury requests awaiting trial. At the close of FY87 the pending caseload decreased by 43 defendants to 917 jury trial requests awaiting trial. This marks the first decrease since FY81.

During FY87 the department received 3,304 requests for jury trial compared to 3,261 during FY86. Sixty-two percent, compared to 58 percent the previous fiscal year, of these requests were for a jury trial in the first instance. The remainder of these requests were de novo appeals. All juvenile delinquency jury-of-six cases initiated in Boston are tried at the Boston Division, Juvenile Court Department.

Requests received rose in each of the seven years since the establishment of jury-of-six caseload in the department. The most consistent aspect of this growth has been in the increase of first instance jury requests. First instance requests have tripled in seven years, up 290 percent from FY81 levels with an increase of 7 percent over FY86.

There are three ways in which a jury request can be terminated as an active status case: withdrawal of appeal, disposition by the court, and failure to appear by the defendant.

FY87 withdrawal of appeals have decreased by three cases to 156, the second decrease in five years (FY86 being the first). The 156 withdrawals equal 12.4 percent of the total de novo appeal requests received.

Dispositions for FY87 totaled 3,150 defendants, an increase of 623 from FY86. More than one half, or 54.6 percent, of initial jury requests were disposed of at a non-jury or bench trial.

Jury session dispositions for FY87 broke down as follows:

- 54.6 percent after bench trial (1719)
- 21.4 percent after guilty plea (676)
- 20.9 percent by other means of disposition (657)
- 3.1 percent after jury trial (98)

The BMC disposed of a much larger proportion of its jury caseload by bench trial and a smaller proportion by guilty pleas compared to the District Court Department jury sessions.

Throughput for FY87 was 95.3 percent, an increase of 17.8 percent over the previous fiscal year. Throughput is the ratio of cases disposed to the number of cases received.

The cumulative case aging analysis for the end of the last two fiscal years is as follows:

FY86 (910 defendants)		FY87 (917 defendants)
Age	Percentage	Age	Percentage
0-30	24.6	0-30	30.0
0-60	42.6	0-60	48.1
0-90	59.6	0-90	63.6
0-120	67.7	0-120	74.0
+120	24.7	+120	26.1

Civil Caseload

A total of 35,113 non-criminal matters was initiated during the year. This is a decrease of 12,355 cases, or 26 percent less than FY86.

Civil cases and small claims comprised 72.8 percent of the department's civil filings.

Since FY82 small claims entries and dispositions have shown a steady increase. Small claims entries increased 27.9 percent from FY86 while dispositions increased 21.4 percent for the same period.

In FY87 the department disposed of 51,749 non-criminal matters. This is an increase of 10,583 dispositions, or 25.7 percent from FY86. The FY87 disposition volume resulted in a throughput (dispositions per 100 filings) of 147.4.

Remands

At the end of the fiscal year there were 602 pending remands at the BMC. Listed below is the aging breakdown of these cases by the number of months pending:

Age	Pending Remand Cases
1-6	511
7-12	79
13-18	11
25-30	1

Appellate Division.

The BMC Appellate Division is composed of three justices. Panels are composed of not more than three justices; two justices constitute a quorum. The panel is authorized to hear appeals on points of law only from the department's civil session.

Data is included for FY'87 division activity.

District Court Department

The District Court Department records detailed caseload data in six areas of the legal jurisdiction of its 69 divisions.

Criminal Caseload

Criminal complaints filed in the District Court Department declined for the first time in the last six fiscal years.

Criminal complaints filed in FY '87 totalled 556,709. This was a decrease of 139,805 complaints, or 20.1 percent from FY '86. Motor vehicle complaints comprised 53.9 percent of all complaints filed. The motor vehicle criminal complaints decreased 142,098, or 32 percent from FY '86.

There was a slight increase in all other criminal complaints which totalled 2,293.

The complaints comprising the caseload broke down as follows:

Operating Under the Influence	7.5 percent
Serious Motor Vehicle	5.8 percent
Other Motor Vehicle Complaints	40.6 percent
Nonsupport	0.5 percent
Assault Crimes	6.7 percent
Breaking and Entering	3.2 percent
Larceny and Fraud	13.6 percent
Narcotics	5.8 percent
Disorderly Conduct	4.2 percent
Other Criminal Complaints	12.1 percent

Jury of Six Caseload

There were 4,116 active jury requests pending before the 18 jury session divisions at the start of FY '87.

During the year 21,369 requests for jury trial were received. This is an increase of 2,331 requests from the previous year. More than half of these requests, 69.4 percent, were requests for a jury trial in the first instance by adult defendants. Adult defendants requesting a de novo jury trial on appeal accounted for 29 percent of all requests. Requests for jury trials both de novo and first instance for juvenile delinquency and CHINS cases made up the remaining 1.6 percent.

There were 865 appeals withdrawn in FY '87 compared to 740 appeals withdrawn in FY'86. Dispositions totalled 19,053, an increase for the sixth consecutive year.

Guilty Plea	60.4 percent
Jury Trial	12.7 percent
Bench Trial	9.4 percent
Other	17.5 percent

Throughput for FY '87 was 89.2 percent.

At the end of FY '87 there were 5,147 jury requests awaiting action by the District Court Department, up 1,031 pending requests from the start of the fiscal year. Sixty-four percent of this end pending caseload has been pending for less than 90 days.

As a result of the remand limit being increased from $15,000 to $25,000 in August 1986 the District Court Department has seen a steady growth in the remand category. At the beginning of FY'87 there were 2,342 pending remand cases. At the close of the fiscal year this category increased by 1,874 cases, or 79 percent, to 4,236 pending cases. There was an average of 502 cases remanded to the District Court on a monthly basis, while at the same time only 346 remand cases per month were disposed.

Decriminalized Motor Vehicle Activity

In FY '87, law enforcement agencies issued 944,949 citations for decriminalized motor vehicle violations, now called CMVI (Civil Motor Vehicle Infractions). This is an increase of 75,804 citations or 8.7 percent from FY '86.

During the same period, 688,587 citations were disposed of noncriminally through the payment of a fine. This is a throughput rate of 72.9 percent for the year.

For the same period there were 122,907 clerk-magistrate hearings to dispose of contested CMVIs. This is an increase of 15,126 hearings or 14 percent from FY '86.

Civil Caseload

The District Court Department reported data for 10 categories of noncriminal case activity. Overall, the changes in these case categories in FY '87 relative to the past several years were minor. However, several subtle but important changes are apparent in both the volume and composition of the caseload.

New cases entered for all types of noncriminal case categories totalled 270,124, an increase of 5.8 percent from the previous year.

In terms of composition the department's caseload is as follows:

Small Claims	54 percent
Civil Cases	21 percent
Summary Process	6 percent

Spousal Abuse Petitions	8 percent
URESAs	2 percent
Mental Commitment	1 percent
Supplementary Process	6 percent
Transfer Cases, Victims of Violent Crime, etc.	2 percent

District Court Department dispositions totalled 194,834, a decrease of less than 1 percent from FY '86. This is the first decrease in dispositions since FY '83. The ratio of cases disposed to entries is 72 percent.

Juvenile Caseload

Three categories of juvenile-related business are reported: juvenile delinquency, CHINS, and care and protection cases. Juvenile cases decreased by 6.5 percent. Motor vehicle complaints constituted 25.5 percent of the total, declining 12.9 percent from the previous year.

Dispositions of delinquency complaints decreased by 3,293 or 15.5 percent from the previous year's disposition volume. Since FY '83 dispositions have decreased with the exception of FY '86.

FY '87 was the first year in the past six in which CHINS applications received and petitions issued have shown a decrease. Dispositions held roughly consistent with the past several years at between 1,800 and 2,100 per year.

Care and protection petitions received were up 3.2 percent while dispositions increased 14.9 percent over last year. In FY '87, 1,109 petitions were received and 663 petitions were disposed by the Court.

Appellate Division

There are three regional appellate division locations for the District Court Department. Each of these divisions are composed of five justices. The panels are authorized to hear appeals on points of law only in noncriminal cases from the divisions of the District Court Department. Panels are composed of not more than three justices; two justices make a quorum.

Appellate Division activity increased from the previous year. Average time from Trial Court judgment to Appellate Division entry was 149 days while the Appellate Division entry to disposition averaged 167 days.

Housing Court Department

Housing Court Department

Four categories of caseload data are included for three divisions of the Housing Court Department. The Worcester Division completed its first full fiscal year of operation. This section contains a data table and graphics which present criminal, summary process, small claims, and civil cases entered in the department during Fiscal Year 1987.

The department received a total of 23,894 new entries in four case categories in FY'87, up 19.3 percent from the previous fiscal year. Fifty-six percent of these entries were in the Boston Division.

FY'87 total entries:

- 42.6 percent—Criminal
- 38.2 percent—Summary process
- 10.9 percent—Civil
- 8.3 percent —Small claims

Increased entries were reported in each category this fiscal year. These were as follows:

- 39.6 percent—Criminal
- 9.9 percent —Small claims
- 8.6 percent—Civil
- 6.9 percent—Summary process

Overall, the largest increase of volume was in the Worcester Division, but it should be noted that this division began operation in the middle of FY'86.

CASELOAD COMPOSITION

Juvenile Court Department

Juvenile Court Department

The Juvenile Court Department is composed of four divisions which have juvenile jurisdiction in four geographic areas: Boston, Springfield, Worcester, and Bristol County. The department collects and reports data on five casetypes, a count of judicial determinations, and Juvenile Court Department jury of six activity for the fiscal year.

Juvenile Caseload

Within the five case types there has been considerable fluctuation in the number of filings in each of the past five fiscal years. In Fiscal Year 1987 increases were reported in four of the five casetypes.

Juvenile delinquency complaints, 8,710, in FY '87, increased 25.8 percent after a decrease of 6.6 percent the previous year, while the volume of CHINS increased by 14 percent from 2,125 to 2,422. Judicial determinations increased by 6,200 from 67,021 in FY '86 to 73,221 in FY'87. This total is the highest in the past five years. The remaining casetypes present no clear trend.

In FY '87, 715 care and protection petitions were filed representing 999 children. In 1986, the comparable figures were 622 petitions involving 975 children.

Filings for contributing to the delinquency of a minor increased by 20.8 percent over the previous fiscal year. The number of filings in FY '86 was 96 compared to 116 filings during FY'87.

Jury of Six Caseload

Jury of six caseload data is reported for three divisions of the department. Bristol Division cases are heard and reported by the New Bedford Division of the District Court Department.

The department began the fiscal year with 107 jury request actively pending before the court. During the year an additional 331 jury requests were received. Seventy-seven percent of these requests were de novo appeals. The remaining requests were first instance jury trials.

Forty-one appeals were withdrawn during FY '87. This amounted to 16 percent of all de novo appeal requests filed and 12.4 percent of total requests filed. The departments disposed of 313 requests during the year.

The disposition categories are the following:

Guilty Plea/Admission of Guilt	56.7 percent
Jury Trial	10.3 percent
Jury Waived Trial	19.9 percent
Other Means of Disposition	13.1 percent

Throughput for FY'87 was 94.6 percent. Throughput is the ratio of cases disposed to cases entered.

At the end of the fiscal year there were 80 cases actively pending, a decrease of 27 cases from the beginning of the fiscal year. Of the 80 active requests, 45 percent had been pending for less than 60 days.

Land Court Department

Land Court Department

The Land Court Department reports caseload data in four categories. In addition, the department presents a count of the number of decree and subdivision plans drawn up by its Engineering Department as well as a general report of the department's cost to the Commonwealth.

Caseload

The Land Court Department began Fiscal Year 1987 with 25,012 cases awaiting action by the court. During the year an additional 9,774 cases were entered bringing the total caseload available for action by the court to 34,786 cases.

Case entries increased by 1.5 percent in FY '87 relative to FY '86. While entries in the land registration and subsequent category has increased in recent years, the opposite trend is indicated for land registration confirmation. For the second time in five years equity miscellaneous entries showed an increase of activity. The increase in FY '87 was 7.8 percent above FY '86. For the past four years tax lien entries have decreased.

The department disposed of 9,717 cases in FY '87, a 16.1 percent increase over the past year. This disposition level gives the department an annual throughput rate of 99 dispositions per 100 cases entered. Throughput is the ratio of cases disposed to cases entered.

Calculating this throughput ratio for each of the individual casetypes, it is clear that the department disposes cases with a high degree of efficiency. However, the end pending caseload has not decreased in the previous five years, while the entries and dispositions show no clear trend. The pending caseload rose by less than 1 percent in 1987.

Plans

In recent years there has been a shift in the workload of the Land Court Department's Engineering staff from decree plans to subdivision plans. After a steady decline in decree plans for the past four fiscal years, this year saw an increase of two decree plans and 14 subdivision plans. As a result, total plan production for FY '87 increased by 16 plans over the past year.

Probate and Family Court Department

The Probate and Family Court Department reports detailed case data on 20 separate categories of case filings and nine categories of dispositions. The department also presents information on support collections, fees, and charges assessed during the year.

Filings

In Fiscal Year 1987 a total of 123,317 original entries, including all partitions, accounts, and complaints, were filed in the Probate and Family Court Department. This is an increase of 7,034 filings, or 6 percent, from FY '86.

Forty-four percent (54,691) of the filings in FY'87 were probate-related matters. Total probate matters filed decreased by 4 percent from the previous year.

Probate cases are reported in eight general categories. Decreased filings were reported in four categories versus FY'86:

- Administrations-down 12.1 percent.
- Trusteeships-down 10.2 percent.
- Conservatorships-down 3.6 percent
- Accounts and Distributions-down 12.1 percent.

Divorces filed in FY'87 totaled 22,478, a decline of 453 filings, or 1.9 percent from the previous year. Divorce filings accounted for 18 percent of total filings, a proportion roughly consistent with past fiscal years.

The remaining 38 percent of the departments FY'87 filings is composed of various smaller volume casetypes. There are two points to note in this grouping.

- Chapter 209A Petitions (Abuse Prevention) increased by 5.9 percent over FY'86.
- Chapter 210, Sec. 3 (Termination of Parental Rights Petitions) increased by 8.8 percent over FY'86.

Eight divisions recorded increased filings and six recorded decreases relative to last year. The largest increases in volume were Suffolk Division, 27.2 percent; Hampshire Division, 26.6 percent; and Barnstable Division, 26.5 percent. The largest decrease was Dukes County, -6.3 percent.

Dispositions

A total of 160,897 matters were disposed in FY'87, and this represents an increase of less than one percent from FY'86. The contested matters represented 27.5 percent of the total disposed cases; uncontested represented 72.5 percent of the dispositions.

Disposed contested matters for FY'87 decreased 3.9 percent over FY'86.

Disposed contested matters break down as follows:

- 45.8 percent Motions
- 29.44 percent Contempts and Contempts continued
- 8.75 percent Divorce
- 16.01 percent All other case types

Disposed uncontested matters for FY'87 increased by 2.5 percent over FY'86.

Disposed uncontested matters break down as follows:

- 45 percent Probate
- 30.1 percent Motions
- 15.4 percent Divorces
- 9.5 percent All other casetypes

The department held 7,249 pretrials and settled 2,790 or 38.5 percent during FY'87. Bristol and Dukes County's had a settlement rate of 50 percent or greater.

Support Collections

The Family Service Offices collected a total of $73,171,609 in FY'87. This is an increase of $10,376,561 over last years collection level, a single year increase of 16.5 percent. Eighty-three percent of these support collections went directly to litigants while the remainder was sent to the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare.

Increases in support monies collected were recorded in all 12 Family Service Office collection areas. The largest relative increase in monies collected was recorded at the Middlesex Division, which reported an increase of 16 percent in total monies collected over FY'86.

Fees Collected

The department collected $4,145,235 in fees. This is a 2 percent increase in fees collected during FY'87. Fees collected break down as follows:

- 49.1 percent Probate and Fidiciary Filing Fees
- 26.4 Domestic Relations Filing Fees
- 17.1 percent Certificate Copies and Other Fees
- 6.3 percent Surcharges
- 1.1 percent Equity and Other Filing Fees

PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT

BREAKDOWN OF FEES COLLECTED FY'87

Superior Court
Department

Criminal Caseload

The department began the fiscal year (July 1, 1986) with 4,717 cases (defendants) awaiting trial. At the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1987) the number of defendants awaiting trial increased by 721 defendants to 5,438 defendants awaiting trial. For the second time in a row there has been an increase in the number of pending criminal cases after five consecutive decreases in the pending criminal caseload. A comparison of the previous two fiscal years indicated that FY'86 criminal cases increased by 614 cases, or 11.6 percent, over FY '85, while FY'87 increased by 897 cases, or 15.2 percent over FY'86.

The department throughput for FY'87 was 89.4 percent. For every 100 cases entered 89.4 cases were disposed. Throughput is the ratio of dispositions to entries. Three of the 14 divisions achieved a throughput of 100 percent or higher.

Of the mainland counties Barnstable Division had the highest percentage of its caseload over 12 months of age.

Dukes, Nantucket, and Hampshire Divisions reported no cases pending over 12 months, while the Norfolk and Worcester Divisions both reported 9 percent pending in the over 12 months aging category.

Criminal cases were disposed of in the following manner for FY'87:

Number of dispositions		Percentage
Trial	721	11.9
Plea	4,056	66.8
Other	1,292	21.3
Total	6,069	100

For the second time in six years there were more criminal cases entered than disposed.

Appellate Division

The Appellate Division of the Superior Court Department is authorized to review state prison sentences imposed from the criminal sessions of the Superior Court Department.

The division began FY'87 with 595 sentences pending review. During the year 1,169 sentence reviews were entered, and 1,094 sentence reviews were heard by the division. At the end of the year 670 sentence reviews were pending.

Civil Caseload

The department throughput for FY'87 was 120.7 percent. Eleven of the 14 divisions achieved a throughput of 100 percent or higher.

The department began FY'87 with 80,091 civil actions pending. At the end of FY'87 the pending civil caseload decreased by 6,817 cases to 73,274 pending cases, a decrease of 8.5 percent. This is the lowest figure in the last three fiscal years.

The median age of pending civil cases as of June 30, 1987 was 18.2 months. This compares to a median age of 18.9 months on July 1, 1986.

The department reported for FY'87 a 3.4 percent decrease of entries and an 18.4 percent increase of dispositions from FY'86. Tort cases comprised 43.3 percent of all entries and 45.3 percent of all dispositions.

For FY'87 the Suffolk and Middlesex Divisions accounted for 49.2 percent of the department pending total, 44.8 percent of the department entries and 46.7 percent of the department dispositions.

The department reported an increase of 116.3 percent in the number of remanded cases to the Boston Municipal Court and District Court Departments. The substantial increase in the number of actions remanded is attributed to the implementation of Standing Order 1-86 (Transfer Procedure under M.G.L. c. 231, s.102C and Superior Court Rule 29) which increased the remand limit to $25,000.

Fiscal Year	Number of Cases Remanded
1982	1,227
1983	1,827
1984	2,272
1985	1,532
1986	3,423
1987	7,403

The reported number of cases remanded from the Superior Court in FY '87 shows a significant increase during this year in comparison to the previous fiscal years.

1987 in Review. Progress continues in the computerization of the Probation Central File. By Dec. 31, 1987, 33 probation offices were electronically transmitting their criminal records information to the Trial Court Computer Center. More than 56 percent of the adult arraignments statewide were entered into the computer. At end of 1987 the computer held complete criminal records on 95,000 adult offenders and partial information on an additional 425,000 offenders.

Requests for criminal record information continued to increase in 1987. Telephone inquiries increased 5 percent to total 331,000. Requests from bail commissioners increased 3.4 percent to nearly 31,000. Teletype inquiries from authorized police agencies increased more than 16 percent to almost 193,000 requests.

More than $147,283,000 was collected by probation offices during 1987, an increase of more than 13.4 percent from the prior year. Of the money collected, more than $121,161,000 represented child support enforcement collections, an increase of 16 percent from 1986. These figures represented the most monies ever collected by the probation service.

A MicroVAX II computer was installed and is compatible with both Digital terminals and IBM-PC microcomputers. All divisions at OCP now have microcomputers and trained staff. The MicroVAX II together with the microcomputers significantly improves both information processing and analytical capabilities of the commissioner's office.

Probation offices throughout the Commonwealth were monitored to determine compliance with investigation, Risk/Need, and supervision standards. Sixteen probation offices have been certified in compliance with an additional 20 scheduled for certification monitoring during 1988.

The volume of the Interstate Transfer of Probation Supervision Cases remained constant. A total of 440 cases, 398 adult and 42 juvenile, were transferred for out-of-state supervision, while Massachusetts provided probation supervision for 780 cases.

A successful tracking system was designed for probationers assigned to the drunk driving 14-day hospital program to ensure efficient use of hospital beds, increase communication and coordination of services between the hospital program and probation personnel, and to improve public safety.

New internal security procedures were implemented. All OCP employees were fingerprinted and provided with identification badges.

Training. The Massachusetts Probation Service has about 1070 probation officers in the field for whom OCP provides training. Besides training, OCP conducts in-service training for its own staff and also sponsored almost 200 different training opportunities to staff and probation personnel through tuition/registration fee subsidies.

Seventy probation personnel were trained on "Negotiation and Collaborative Problem-Solving Techniques," assisted of Professor Lawrence Suskind of the Program on Negotiation at Harvard Law School and a member of the Commissioner's Citizen Advisory Board.

A three-day training conference on "Child Sexual Abuse" featuring the international expert James M. Mead was sponsored for probation officers. This conference enabled participants to return to their local courts as resource agents and trainers. This conference together with those on sexual abuse and the c. 209A spousal abuse law have made the probation service one of the pioneers in providing in-depth training in these vital areas of social and legal concern.

Programs offered for new probation officers in 1987 included: probation officer orientation, core curriculum course on basic alcohol facts, conducting and writing investigations, interpersonal communication, legal liability, DUIL law, and an overview of mental health law.

Programs offered for management/supervisory personnel in 1987 were Cinema Seminars—Leadership, ACPO Networking for Professional Development, the Commissioner's Management Conference, a retirement planning seminar, and basic management principles.

Topical workshops pertained to negotiation in supervision, family violence, psychiatric/psychological intervention in the Probate and Family Court Department, an overview of the state Division of Alcoholism Services, community service restitution, non-support cases in Probate Court, cocaine, "Children of the Alcoholic," parole regulations, the violent offender, and "The Good Mother—A Case Study in Custody."

Trainees toured MCI (Massachusetts Correctional Institution) Concord, the Department of Youth Services' Judge Connelly Youth Center in Roslindale, and MCI Norfolk as part of continual correctional site visits.

Most workshops were held three or four times in locations across the state to allow as many participants to attend. Attendance for 1987 totaled more than 2,400.

Annual Conference. In May more than 300 probation and support staff celebrated the 200th birthday of the United States Constitution at the annual Probation Conference in Randolph. The program featured a plenary session which dealt with the issue of individual rights as they relate to electronic surveillance and mandatory drug testing. Chief Justice Edward F. Hennessey of the Supreme Judicial Court was the luncheon speaker.

Other 1987 Highlights. A manual on Restitution Programming was published. This manual serves as a foundation upon which probation officers can develop local programs and provides support for the statewide accreditation effort. A similar manual which addresses volunteers and interns is scheduled for publication in early 1988.

During 1987 OCP:

- Published a major study entitled Driving Under the Influence of Liquor: An Analysis Four Year after Chapter 373.

- Conducted several in-house projects.

- Released the first edition of the Research and Planning Abstracts, a comprehensive guide to research conducted.

- Entered into a research cooperation with nine major local public and private institutions and agencies.

- Developed a comprehensive Media Guide which provides an exhaustive list of local, state, and national newspapers together with radio and television stations which may be interested in the reports generated by OCP.

- Sent out 96 press releases, and

- Responded to more than 800 requests for statistical information from both individuals and local, state, and national agencies and institutions.

Office of the Jury Commissioner

The Office of Jury Commissioner (M.G.L. c.234A) is responsible for the summoning of jurors in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. During the past several years OJC has been introducing the One Day/One Trial jury system which originated in Middlesex County in 1979.

Under court orders of the Supreme Judicial Court OJC enacted the One Day/One Trial system in 10 of the Commonwealth's 14 counties. During 1987 Berkshire, Franklin, and Hampshire Counties joined the One Day system.

The last three counties, Barnstable, Bristol, Dukes, and Nantucket, will start the One Day system in January 1988.

The One Day/One Trial format provides a better cross-section of citizenry to appear as members of juries. Under the old system jurors sat for 30 days and were compensated $14 a day. There were 39 categories for juror exemption.

Under the One Day/One Trial juror service either lasts one day or for the length of one trial. OJC statistics have indicated that average term of service lasts three days or less. And there are no exemptions to jury duty; even judges are summoned.

Jurors are allowed one postponement. All citizens from ages 18 to 70 are randomly summoned by computer from census lists generated from the cities and towns of a county.

Upon completion of jury duty each juror receives a certificate. He or she is not required to serve for another three years.

With shorter terms of duty the costs of juror compensation plummet. For example, in Franklin County jurors were paid $79,798 in 1986. Next year under the Middlesex method compensation totaled $29,137 in Franklin County. In nearby Hampshire County jurors dropped from $141,669 in 1986 to $50,655 in 1987.

Jurors now are paid for the first three days of jury duty by their employers, and service beyond three days is paid by the Commonwealth at a rate of $50 a day.

OJC is located on the ninth, tenth, and eleventh floors of the Middlesex County Courthouse in East Cambridge. It has a staff of 25.

1987 Highlights. In 1987 a total of 754,090 potential jurors were summoned, 256,381 certificates of service were awarded, and 298,002 juror handbooks were mailed. Postage totaled $583,922.07.

Glossary

Administration—The management and settlement of an estate for someone who dies intestate (without a will) or someone with no executor. The court appoints an administrator to oversee the collection of assets, pay the debts and claims against the estate, pay estate taxes, and distribute the remainder of the estate.

Administrative Supervision—A type of supervision in which the primary purpose of the probation officer is the enforcement of the collection of monies and/or any other specific court orders made.

CHINS (Children in Need of Services)—A petition filed in a Juvenile or District Court by a prevent, police officer, or a school attendance officer. The petitioner asks the court to intervene on behalf of a juvenile (age 17 or younger) in one of three instances: a runaway child, a disobedient child, and truant child. In a CHINS case, the court may place the child in the custody of the Department of Social Services.

Care and Protection—Alleges that a youngster fails to receive adequate physical and emotional care from his parents or guardian. The court may place the child in the care of the Department of Social Services. This petition is filed in either a Juvenile or District Court by any adult or the child himself.

Chapter 209A—Statute to prevent abuse by any family member. Filed by any person in a District, Probate and Family, or Superior Court, the court may order the defendant to stop abusing the plaintiff, order the defendant to leave the home, award the plaintiff temporary custody of any children, order the defendant to pay temporary support, and for the defendant to pay compensation for any injuries suffered by the plaintiff.

Conservatorship—A court action in which the court determines that a person cannot manage their finances due to age or mental weakness. Court appoints a conservator, who takes over the financial decisions for the person.

Disposition—The final outcome of a case.

I PW—The Department of Public Welfare.

DUIL—Driving under the Influence of Liquor, drunk driving cases.

DYS—Department of Youth Services.

Decree Nisi—The initial judgment of divorce, which can be vacated by the court before becoming absolute, 90 days after entry.

Equitable relief—A court action seeking an injunction to prohibit a party from taking some action or ordering them to do something, as compared to an action at law for a monetary damage award.

Filing—When a case is entered in court.

First instance jury trial—Under trial de novo the defendant chooses a jury instead of a bench trial.

Guardian ad litem—A court-appointed guardian of a juvenile.

Guardianship—A court action declaring a person incompetent to manage their personal and financial affairs due to mental illness or retardation. Court appoints a guardian for the person or may make orders regarding extraordinary medical treatment.

Irretrievable breakdown—A ground for divorce in which one or both parties claim that the marriage relationship has permanently broken down with no fault attributed to either party.

Juvenile Bindover—Chronic juvenile defendants or juveniles who commit violent crimes may be transferred to the jurisdiction of the Superior Court Department to be treated as adults. In Massachusetts, this transfer is referred to as a Juvenile Bindover.

MCI—Massachusetts Correctional Institution.

OCAJ—Office of the Chief Administrative Justice, 218 New Courthouse, Boston, MA 02108.

OCP—Office of the Commissioner of Probation, 4th floor, McCormick Building, Boston, MA 02108.

OUI—Operating Under the Influence. Drunk driving cases.

Partition—A court action in which land owned by several persons is sold and the proceeds divided.

Risk/Need Supervision—A method of differential supervision used by probation officers in the Superior, District, Boston Municipal, and Juvenile Court Departments.

SJC—Supreme Judicial Court, 1300 New Courthouse, Boston, MA 02108.

Separate support and maintenance—A case in which a party seeks a court judgment that they are living apart due to the fault of one party but do not want a divorce. Court usually enters a support order.

Surrender/Supervision violation notices—A probationer who commits a new offense or does not meet the conditions of probation ordered by the court may be brought back to court for violation of probation. In these cases, a Surrender/Supervision Violation Notice is issued to the probationer to notify him/her that a hearing will be conducted concerning the violation.

Throughput—The ratio of cases disposed to the number of cases disposed.

Trial de novo—In the District Court, the defendant may appeal a bench trial (only heard by a judge with no jury) for a jury-of-six trial or the defendant originally requests a jury trial.

Trusteeships—A court action in which the court appoints a person (trustee) who holds and administers property or money for the benefit of other beneficiaries).
